Marion Host to 2-Day State DeMolay Meeting

Banquet at Noon Launches Series of Sessions at Masonic Temple; Dignitaries Coming.

A banquet at noon today in the Masonic temple opened the 18th annual Ohio State DeMolay conclave for which members of Marion Chapter No. 288 will be hosts today and Sunday. Approximately 150 delegates, members and state and district officers are here for the two-day meet. Convention headquarters are at Hotel Harding, and social and business meetings will be divided between the hotel and Masonic temple.

This morning was given over to registrations at the hotel. F. Riley Hall, conclave chairman and the retiring master of the host chapter, presided for the opening banquet at the Masonic temple, at which the guests were welcomed by Mayor Russell C. Snare, Harley T. Gracely, and Harold J. Grigsby of the Marion Masonic bodies.

James W. Batey of Harding chapter, East Liverpool, state master councilor, presided for the opening business session this afternoon at the temple when reports of committees and state officers were given. Mr. Batey will preside at all the business sessions. Harold Fralich of Marion is the state senior councilor and Joseph Snayd of Cleveland is scribe-treasurer. He succeeded George Hargreaves of that city who is now with the armed forces.

The only other business session scheduled for today is a meeting of the state advisory council at 7:30 p. m. at Hotel Harding. Highlighting the social activities is the grand conclave ball to be held tonight from 9 to 12 o'clock at the temple, with Bob McMahon's orchestra playing the dance program. Presiding for the advisory council meeting will be Edward H. Reber of Newark, chairman of the state council, and attending will be "Dad" Jesse W. Darling of Cincinnati, 33d degree Mason and active member of the grand council in the state.

Mr. Darling gave a talk over WMRN local radio station today at 11:15 a. m.

Sunday Program

The program Sunday includes the election and installation of officers, a pilgrimage to the tomb of President Harding and the closing banquet. At 8 a. m. there will be a breakfast at Hotel Harding for all honor groups, advisory council members, board of governors and district deputies. This will be followed by a meeting of the state advisory council at 8:45 a. m. and at 10 a. m. the members will go to the Harding memorial where a wreath will be placed in the name of the Ohio State Council, Order of DeMolay. The closing business session at 12:30 p. m. at Hotel Harding will include the election of state officers and at 4 p. m. the members will convene at the Masonic temple for the installation ceremony which will be open to the public. Private John L. Craner of Marion will preside as the installing officer, and assisting will be Robert W. Solinger, district deputy of District No. 4 which includes Marion, senior councilor; Richard L. Acker, junior councilor; F. Riley Hall, marshal; James A. Gast, chevalier, chaplain; Richard L. Mayfield, master councilor of Marion chapter, senior deacon. All except

BIBLE CONFERENCE WILL CLOSE SUNDAY

Conclusion of 2 Weeks' Services at Garfield Park.

Final services of the sixth annual Evangelistic Bible conference will be held at Chautauqua pavilion, Garfield park tonight at 8 and tomorrow at 2:30 and 7:30 p. m. in charge of the American Back to God trio of Detroit.

Last night Rev. Russell Ward spoke on "The Necessity of the New Birth," stating that "the spirit, soul and body of man are dead and need to be made alive." A demonstration of children's work was given at the beginning of service. Over 100 children attended the afternoon meeting.

Rev. Ward's subject tomorrow will be "As It Was in the Days of Noah," a prophetic message on the signs of the times." The trio, including Rev. Ward, Kenneth Cummings and Charles Berquist, will furnish music for the service, appearing for the first time as a group. Each member will soon take up a pastorate or assistant pastorate in the denomination of his choice.

An annual picnic supper in charge of the Young People's Fellowship club of Marion which sponsored the conference will be held tonight at 6:30 at the park in honor of the conference trio. All friends of the conference and their families are invited.

Marion Woman Pursues Thief, Recovers Radio

Prompt action on the part of two employes of the United Electric Supply Co. at 138 East Center street Friday led to the apprehension by city police of three men on charges of petit larceny.

One of three men, George Hoppenberg, 42, walked into the store between 7 and 7:30 last night, picked up a small table-model radio and ran from the store. Mrs. Clarence Ross, secretary and bookkeeper of the firm, followed the man. In the alley east of the courthouse she overtook him and took the radio from him.

A second employe, Floyd Davis, an electrician, followed Hoppenberg. A short distance from the courthouse Hoppenberg was joined by two others, Walter King, 46, and Robert E. Goede, 63. He followed them to Leader street where city police found them. Mrs. Ross had notified police when she returned to the store.

In municipal court today, Hoppenberg pleaded guilty and was fined $25 and costs and was committed to the county jail for 30 days. Both Goede and King also pleaded guilty and were fined $25 and costs.

Police said today all three apparently were "floaters," men without homes.

HUGE CROWD AT "JUNK RALLY"

Section of Downtown Area Filled; Throngs Dance and Hear Salvage Talks.

The salvage drive for scrap metals and fats got under way officially last night with a "junk rally" which drew thousands of persons to the downtown area.

Estimates of the total number who attended during progress of the entertainment ranged between 8,000 and 12,000.

The rally was staged on South Main street between Center and Church streets.

Long before the streets were roped off for the opening of festivities at 9 o'clock, curbside standing room was at a premium and the space around the bandstand was filled. The crowd watched from the sidelines or joined in the dancing and for the more serious part of the program heard Mayor Russell C. Snare and E. L. Cleveland, assistant to the president of the Marion Steam Shovel Co., tell the purpose of the rally and the part all can take in the salvaging of scrap iron and other metals and fats to help win the war.

Band Program

The festivities got off to a good start when the Eagles band marched down the street and under the large American flag suspended across Main street, to the bandstand where they played a snappy program ending with an old-time number, "Little Giant," which they played "circus style."

The dancers swung on the cur-

CITY GETS 57 MORE PARKING METERS

325 Now in Operation; New Ones on Oak, Church Sts.

Installation of 57 parking meters yesterday by representatives of the Dual Parking Meter Co. of Oklahoma City, Okla., and city service department employes boosts to 325 the number of meters in operation in Marion, Safety-Service Director C. C. Caldwell said today.

The new meters were placed on Church street between Prospect and State streets and on Oak street to the first alley north of West Center street. Forty meters were placed on Church street and 17 on Oak, Pearl Rockwell, a service department employe in charge of the meters, said.

Standards for the new meters were placed in position several weeks ago by service department employes and the J. M. Hamilton & Sons Co. Installation of the meter heads was delayed until the arrival of a representative of the Dual Parking Meter Co.

The new meters, like a group installed several weeks ago, are being used on a rental basis. Each month for one year the city pays a specified rental fee. At the end of a year, the city has the privilege of purchasing the meters or ordering them removed. If the meters are purchased, the monthly

Board Issues 20 Tons of Sugar for Canning

The Marion City Rationing board issued 39,385 pounds of sugar for canning from Aug. 1 to Aug. 13, according to C. C. Holliday, board secretary.

Fourteen hundred and ten certificates were issued making an average of 31 pounds issued per customer. Four hundred and nine ration books were given in the 10-day period.

REDS FIGHT TO STEM THREATS TO STALINGRAD

Battle Desperately To Check Drives on Vital Caspian Sea Port.

By The Associated Press

Russia's armies battled desperately today to stem grave new threats to Stalingrad and to the vital port of Astrakhan on the Caspian sea, while in the Caucasus Nazi columns were reported to have captured the rail city of Georgievsk, 120 miles northwest of the rich Grozny oil fields, after a 20-mile advance.

Soviet dispatches said German troops were fanning out from the Kotelnikovski sector, 93 miles south of Stalingrad, in a menacing drive toward Astrakhan.

The Germans said earlier this week they had captured Elista, 100 miles below Kotelnikovski and only 160 miles from Astrakhan. The Caspian sea port is a major point of entry for allied supplies to Russia.

On the brighter side, Stockholm dispatches reported that Adolf Hitler had been obliged to rush reinforcements to meet Russian attacks in three key sectors on the long looping front before Moscow and before Voronezh, the northern anchor of the Don-Caucasus front.

The Russians were said to be striking furiously at Rzhev, 130 miles northwest of Moscow; at Vyasma, 125 miles west of the Soviet capital; at Bryansk, 210 miles southwest of Moscow, and at Voronezh, which is 300 miles southeast of Moscow.

Whether these were diversionary attacks or a full-fledged Russian counter offensive was not immediately clear, but the German high command acknowledged that Nazi troops were fighting bitter defensive battles northwest of Voronezh and in the Vyazma-Rzhev sector.

Threat Acknowledged

The serious new threat to Stalingrad was acknowledged in a Red army bulletin which said the Germans had driven a deep wedge into the Soviet defense lines below Kletskaya, 75 miles northwest of the big Volga steel city.

The action apparently centered in the Kalach sector, 50 miles west of Stalingrad, where the Germans earlier this week declared they had "annihilated" the bulk of two Russian armies. The Russians said yesterday they had repulsed a massive tank-led attack in the Kletskaya-Kalach region after the Nazis had broken through to the Don.

On the basis of today's Soviet communique the Germans now were apparently in a position to attempt a crossing of the Don river for a direct assault on Stalingrad.

Other swift-breaking developments in the European war picture:

Other Developments

1. British warships shelled the town of Rhodes on the island of Rhodes in the Italian Dodecanese for 12 minutes early Thursday, setting great fires and inflicting extensive damage, the British reported.

The island lies in the eastern Mediterranean close to Turkey.

2. U. S. army fighter pilots were officially disclosed to have entered the battle over the western Egyptian desert, swinging into action with the RAF yesterday amid an intensification of air fighting.

3. Hitler's high command admitted an error in its claim that the 14,700-ton U. S. aircraft carrier Wasp had been hit by six bombs and set aflame in the great running battle in the Mediterranean this week. The damaged warship, the high command said today, was a British carrier of the 23,000-ton Illustrious type.

At the same time, the Nazi command asserted that axis naval and air forces slashing at a big allied convoy in the Mediterranean had sunk 15 merchant ships totaling 120,000 tons, the British aircraft carrier Eagle, two cruisers and three destroyers.

All axis claims on the sea-air battle have been branded as "greatly exaggerated" by the British admiralty, which has acknowledged only the loss of the Eagle and one cruiser.

Views of Salvage Work at Owens Quarry

The photographs above suggest some of the difficulties salvage workers are encountering in removing tons of scrap metal from the abandoned Owens quarry. Harry Miller of 177 Chicago avenue is shown swinging a sledge on a "dinky" motor drawn from underwater by cable. Paul Waddell of south of Marion, at the left, and Howard Miller of 674 Woodrow avenue, center, also are busy trying to get the machine into small enough pieces to get it ashore. The insert shows these three men and Fred Warner Jr., employment manager, on the raft the salvage workers use to locate sunken salvage.

Tons of Submerged Quarry Machinery Hauled Out for War Plant Use.

By ROB BYRD

Salvaging scrap iron from the bottom of the Owens quarry south of Marion is moving along at a steady pace, with some 30 tons of the valuable metal already removed.

A small crew of salvage workers is keeping after the job despite the unpleasantly chilly weather of recent days. The quarry water always is a fairly cold spot, and the chilly breezes don't help matters for men who strip to the waist and slosh about in the water with old trousers and old shoes as their only garments.

Not all of the metal will be removed because some of it is too heavy and located too far under water to be recovered without draining the quarry, which would be a huge undertaking. However, the workers see prospects of getting a total of some 75 to 100 tons and probably will keep after the scrap as long as the weather permits.

Scene of Operation

At the west bank of the quarry pool south of the east-west road that divides the two quarry pits, one may follow a little roadway down to the water's edge. There he will find a truck, some cable and probably the workers' clothing. A rope hangs just above water level, connected from the bank to the old stone crusher and elevator which are some little distance from shore.

The workers board a plank raft supported by six empty oil drums, take hold of the rope and pull themselves out to a little spot of land that is topped by a big iron knob. The knob is the top of the stone crusher, and from that point railroad tracks fan out, under water to the east to reach the various parts of the quarry.

Quarry workers used to load stone into cars and "dinky" engines, which were gasoline-operated locomotives, pushed the cars up an incline to the top of the crusher and dumped in their loads.

15 Cars Located

All along those submerged tracks, workers are now finding quarry cars—some 15 of them have been spotted. They fish around with the cables, sometimes diving, trying to hook on to the cars and pull them up the tracks to the top of the crusher, which now barely sticks out above the water level. They have a winch mounted on a truck to help pull the cars up the tracks, and as long as the cars stay on the tracks they get along pretty well.

But when some heavy piece of equipment like a dinky gets off the track there's plenty of trouble getting it any closer to the top of the water. The men managed to get one dinky up to the point shown in the accompanying photograph, but even at this point they had to plan some way to get it across a considerable span of water to shore. They dismantled as much as they could and took the salvage in piece by piece. Incidentally, grease and oil were still in the old motor although it had been submerged for many years. The workers made a pleasant discovery—the old motor was made largely of aluminum, which is especially valuable salvage material.

Pendulum Gets Results

The dinky shown in the accompanying picture was located about 180 feet from where it is being

Army Plane Crash Kills 9 Officers, Crew Members

By The Associated Press

HASTINGS, Mich., Aug. 15—Nine officers and crew members were killed in the flaming crash last night of a multi-motored army air force bomber in a cornfield seven miles south of here.

Troops from Fort Custer today guarded the scene where the big plane, reported to be attached to a heavy bombardment group from the Willow Run bomber plant near Ypsilanti, fell.

Public relations officers at Fort Custer said the nine dead were:

Lieut. L. H. Tally, Lieut. Maurice C. McCall, Lieut. Eugene G. King, Second Lieut. James J. Dalley, Staff Sergeant John Hazen, Corp. E. L. Prothe, Steve Spantard, George F. Strenge and R. W. Carillon.

Their home addresses were not immediately available.

Parts of the big plane, which came to earth within 100 feet of the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Proefrock and tossed flaming gasoline into the back dooryard, starting grass fires, were scattered for more than a half mile, witnesses said.

Army ambulances removed the bodies of the crew to Kellogg Field, at nearby Battle Creek, Mich., for identification. No official statement concerning the crash was immediately forthcoming.

Many witnesses who saw the plane pass over Hastings said it appeared to be in difficulty even then. Undersheriff L. J. Dexter said he heard its engines sputter and die as it passed over the city. Others said there was no sound from the motors—only an eerie whistling—as it swung low over crowds at the Barry county fairgrounds.

U. S. FIGHTERS OVER DESERT

Go Into Action with RAF; 12 Enemy Planes Down in Convoy Battle.

By The Associated Press

CAIRO, Aug. 15—Participation of United States army fighter pilots in combat over the western desert was announced today as the British disclosed that at least 10—probably more—Axis planes were shot down during the enemy attack on a big Mediterranean convoy this week.

The United States fighter pilots went into action with the RAF yesterday amid an intensification of air fighting since Thursday.

In that period at least 12 enemy planes were shot down by allied fighters, including two German transport planes carrying Axis personnel to Africa but no information was yet available as to whether any of these were scored by Americans.

British light bombers, an RAF communique said, also attacked enemy positions and airfields in the El Daba-Fuka area of the north African front.

Meanwhile, the land front some 80 miles west of Alexandria remained dormant except for minor night patrol activity.

German Correct Report About Wasp

By The Associated Press

BERLIN (FROM GERMAN BROADCASTS), Aug. 15—The German high command corrected its report of Aug. 13 that the 14,700-ton United States aircraft carrier Wasp had been hit by six bombs and set afire in the Mediterranean and said the damaged warship instead was a British aircraft carrier of the Illustrious type.

The correction was made in a special bulletin describing results of the Mediterranean convoy battle in which the high command listed 15 merchant ships totaling about 180,000 tons, the British aircraft carrier Eagle, two cruisers and three destroyers as sunk. The convoy was made up of 21 merchant ships, the announcement said.

Col. John Huling Jr. Returns to Home Here

Lieut. Col. John Huling Jr., on sick leave as commanding officer of the Scioto Ordnance Plant, returned to his home in Marion last night from an army hospital in Chicago. He is recovering from an operation he underwent several weeks ago following a sudden illness.

It is expected Col. Huling's sick leave will continue at least another 30 days.

Major John S. Sears is commanding officer of the plant in his absence.

COUNTY TO SELL METAL

By The Associated Press

ASHTABULA, O., Aug. 15—Ashtabula county commissioners have ordered the iron fence in front of the county jail and a cannon on the courthouse lawn, a relic of World war I, sold for scrap. The cannon was made at the Krupp works in Essen, Germany.

ADMIT MARINES HAVE LANDED ON ONE ISLAND

Reports Indicate Consolidations on 3 Islands, Seizure of 2 Others.

By The Associated Press

Japanese dispatches acknowledged for the first time today that United States marines have landed "on one of the Solomon Islands," 900 miles northeast of Australia, and that Japanese troops were engaged in fierce fighting to ward off the American sea-borne invasion.

In Washington, the navy announced that the marines were "progressing satisfactorily" in consolidating beachheads on three islands in the Solomons.

A Vichy (French) broadcast reported that United States forces had captured an airdrome on one of the islands.

Dispatches to the London Daily Mail said U. S. marines were "believed to have seized the two small islands of Makambo and Gavutu near Tulagi" in the Solomons.

If true, this would mean that the leathernecks had footholds in at least five and possibly six islands and apparently were spreading out in a general attack on the southeast group of the 900-mile-long chain of islands.

The Daily Mail said United States warships had come "to close grips with large units of the Japanese navy" and that for seven days they had been "dealing crippling blows to enemy naval power."

There were indications, too, that Allied fliers had won vital superiority in the southwest Pacific skies.

Tulagi Control Seen

English dispatches from Sydney, Australia, said the Americans "have or soon will have complete control over Tulagi island," site of one of the best harbors in the South Seas war theater.

"The huge naval battle off the Solomon Islands which resulted in overwhelming victory for the Japanese navy has been concluded, according to latest reports," asserted a Tokyo dispatch to DNB, official German news agency.

"Only a few enemy units succeeded in escaping, apparently in the direction of Australia.

Fierce fighting is reported to be taking place between Japanese forces and United States Marines who have landed on one of the Solomon islands."

Tokyo offered no explanation of how American leathernecks established beachheads, even on one island, in the face of its claims to have routed Allied naval forces.

By contrast, a U. S. Navy communique last night declared: "Naval units are engaged in protecting our lines of communications (in the Solomons) and escorting supply vessels to our occupying forces."

Dispatches from Australia said the Marines now were so strongly entrenched that only "the heaviest reinforcements" could dislodge them.

Winging far out over the South Seas, giant U. S. army flying fortresses and attack bombers were striking "round-the-clock blows to prevent the enemy from transporting reinforcements to the battle scene.

While the main battle raged in

SAYS U. S. BOMBERS LOST BLOW AT JAPS

Rep. Magnuson Charges Lack of Coordination.

By The Associated Press

SEATTLE, Aug. 15—United States bombers lost a chance to annihilate a Japanese surface force, including an aircraft carrier, off Alaska last June because of the "unfortunate failure of army and navy coordination," Rep. Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.) asserted today.

Magnuson, a member of the House naval affairs committee, told interviewers on his return from an inspection tour of Alaska military bases that "failure on the part of one army command to interpret liberally standing naval orders regarding enemy contact resulted in a delay which gave the enemy an opportunity to remove itself."

The army command responsible, he added, has since been relieved of duty, "and I am glad to say that there is no possibility of this happening again." The army high command in Alaska now, he predicted, would "welcome [illegible]

Marion to Be Host to 5-Day Session of Statewide Evangelical Conference

Calvary Church To Be Scene of Meetings Set To Begin Wednesday.

Election of delegates to the General Evangelical conference in October, at which action will be taken on the proposed merger of the Evangelical and United Brethren denominations, will be one of the highlights of the one hundred and fifth session of the Ohio Evangelical conference at Calvary Evangelical church next Wednesday through Sunday. Two hundred and fifty ministerial and lay delegates are expected, in addition to many visitors.

Other highlight will be the annual assigning of pastors at the closing session on Sunday afternoon and an ordination rite Sunday morning.

The stationing of ministers will be announced by Dr. George E. Epp of Naperville, Ill., bishop of the central area, who will be the presiding dignitary throughout the sessions.

Merger of the two denominations has been under consideration for several years. First formal action by the general conference of the Evangelical church will be taken at the quadrennial meeting at Naperville in October.

Delegates will return with reports of the general conference action and at the 1943 session of the Ohio Evangelical conference the state organization will cast its vote on the proposal.

May Require Several Years

Local pastors believe it will be 1946 before all executive bodies of the two denominations will have taken final action.

As a fraternal gesture between the two denominations, Dr. V. A. Allman, superintendent of the Sandusky conference of the United Brethren church will appear on the Thursday afternoon program of the meeting here.

The 1942 meeting here will be the second time in 11 years that Marion has entertained the Ohio conference.

All sessions will be open to the public and a special invitation has been extended to the evening sessions at 7:30.

Bishop Epp will deliver a sermon Wednesday night. Thursday and Friday nights there will be sermons by Rev. G. C. Gabriel, superintendent of the Lewisburg district in Lewisburg, Pa. There will be no session Saturday night, unless a business meeting is called.

Former Pastors to Speak

The program will include one Marion pastor, Rev. E. L. Fox of Greenwood Evangelical church, and a number of former Marion pastors, Rev. Irvin Kauffman of Mt. Cory, Rev. H. H. Maxwell of Amherst, Rev. J. W. Heininger of Vermillion, Rev. Leroy Deininger of Cleveland Heights, Dr. H. E. Williamson of Canton and Rev. C. L. Allen of Fremont.

Conference sessions will begin at 8 a. m. Wednesday with meetings of boards and committees, registration and room assignments. Following a devotional message, Bishop Epp will conduct the annual conference communion service, assisted by the district superintendents, Rev. C. L. Allen of Fremont, western district, Dr. D. L. Caldwell of Canton, eastern district, and Rev. E. E. Nietz of Columbus, southern district, and the local pastor, Rev. P. E. Smoke of Calvary church. Rev. Fox and Rev. J. Raphael Dallas of Oakland Evangelical church.

A memorial service will be in charge of Rev. Kauffman, memorial secretary.

Business of the morning session

BISHOP G. E. EPP

REV. G. C. GABRIEL

will include election of a conference secretary, announcement of standing committees, appointment of tellers, monitors, chorister, pianist, stenographers and reporters, adoption of conference agenda and filing of references with committees.

Board of Examiners

The board of examiners will meet with the junior preachers at 1 p. m. and most of the afternoon will be given to reports by committees and the board of examiners. Preceding the adjournment Dr. Williamson, president of the Ohio Conference Missionary society will be in charge.

Rev. Allen will preside for the worship and evangelistic service at 7:30, at which Bishop Epp will preach. The service will include music by the combined choirs of the Marion Evangelical churches, singing under the direction of Charles Feaver, Calvery church director of music, with organ accompaniment by Mrs. J. W. Baker, Calvery organist.

Committee meetings at 8 will precede the opening devotional period at 9 a. m. Thursday.

To Give Reports

Reports will be given by Rev. Deininger, director of Christian education, Dr. Caldwell, trustee of North Central college and Evangelical Theological seminary and Rev. L. E. Dietzel, conference visitor to the Evangelical institutions. A report will be made by the board of district superintendents and the board of examiners on applicants for license to preach and candidates for advancement to orders.

Election of the general conference delegates will precede a report by Rev. Deininger on the Ohio conference administrative council and addresses by Will L. Bailey of Harrisburg, Pa., on "Our Publishing Interests," W. A. Tabbart, superintendent of the Haven Hubbard Old People's home at New Carlisle, Ind., and O. W. Matzke, superintendent of the Ebenezer Orphan's home at Flat Rock, O.

Balloting on general conference delegates is expected to continue into the Thursday afternoon session, which will include reports on the Christian education and Christian social action standing committees, and by Rev. Maxwell, conference statistician. Rev. M. A. Hayes of Akron, president of the Ohio Conference Student Aid society, will report and there will be addresses by Dr. Allman of the United Brethren church, Mrs. C. R. Beerbower of Marion who is president of the Ohio Evangelical Women's Missionary society, and Dr. Raymond M. Veh of Harrisburg, Pa., of the editorial staff of the "Evangelical Crusader."

At 4 p. m there will be a special address by Rev. Gabriel.

Thursday Service

Rev. Smoke, Calvary pastor, will preside for the Thursday night service, at which the conference minister's chorus will make its first appearance at the 1942 meeting. The chorus will sing under the direction of Rev. C. D. Osborne of the Como Avenue church in Columbus. Thursday afternoon at 3:30 the chorus will give a program over Station WMRN.

The sermon Thursday night will be given by Rev. Gabriel.

Following election of conference officers and conference boards Friday morning there will be an adjournment in favor of the Ohio Conference Historical society, of which Rev. J. W. Heininger, formerly Calvary pastor who is now retired, is president. Business will be resumed with addresses by Dr. E. D. Riebel on the Evangelical Theological seminary at Naperville, by Dr. W. L. Bollman of Cleveland, executive secretary of the General Missionary society, and by Bishop Epp on the general administrative council.

Opening of the afternoon session will be followed immediately by adjournment in favor of the Ohio Conference Mission Church Extension fund of which Rev. Allen is president. When sessions resume addresses will be given by Dr. R. H. Mueller of Cleveland, general secretary of the general board of Christian education, Dr. A. H. Doescher of Cleveland, executive secretary-treasurer of the superannuation fund, and Dr. S. P. McNaught of Columbus, executive secretary of the Ohio Anti-Saloon league.

Treasurer's reports will be given as follows:

Treasurers' Reports

Treasurers' reports will be given as follows:

Conference board of Christian education, A. E. Leedy of Fremont; conference mission church extension fund, H. E. Kiess of Bucyrus, who also will report for the conference student aid society and the conference contingent fund; conference treasury, Rev. C. W. Ruhlman of Akron; conference budget, Rev. Fox; missions and benevolences, and the conference missionary society, Rev. L. C. Hoover of Nevada, retired; Linwood Summer Assembly association, Rev. Ludwig Mayer of Cleveland; conference board of trustees, Rev. R. A. Sain of Columbus, former superintendent of the southern district.

The afternoon session will close with a special address by Rev. Gabriel.

Rev. W. H. McLaughlin of Canton will be chairman of the worship and evangelistic service Friday night. Rev. Gabriel will preach and the Marion Evangelical church choir will sing.

Treasurers' reports will be continued Saturday morning, as follows: Conference group insurance, Rev. W. H. Herkner of Lorain; conference historical society, Rev. S. L. Shockey of Akron; conference centennial-missionary fund, Rev. Sain. The session will adjourn in favor of the Ohio Conference Albright Brotherhood, of which Torrey A. Kaatz of Toledo is president.

Time and place of the next session of conference will be set Saturday morning and there will be final reports of the conference auditors and the committee on worship.

Saturday afternoon at 2 Dr. Williamson will make a report as secretary of the commission on evangelism, and there will be a session to clear away unfinished business.

Sunday Program

The Bible school hour Sunday at 9 a. m. will be in charge of George B. Bensley, superintendent of the Calvary church Sunday school. Dr. H. R. Heininger of Naperville seminary, son of Rev. J. W. Heininger, will give addresses on the Sunday school lesson. Rev. Deininger will address the intermediate and junior department of the school.

The morning worship and ordination service will begin at 10:15 with music by the Marion choirs.

The ordination sermon by Bishop Epp will be on "Paul's Appraisal of the Christian Ministry." The solemn ordination ceremony will close the service.

Preceding the stationing of ministers in the afternoon session, which will start at 2:30, the anniversary service of the Ohio Conference Missionary society will be conducted by Dr. Williamson, president. The ministers' chorus will sing and Dr. Bollman will give a missionary address. Immediately preceding the reading of assignments by Bishop Epp an offering for missions will be taken and there will be final reports by the committees on resolutions, boundaries and appropriations.

The visiting ministers and laymen will take their meals at the Masonic temple. Arrangements were made with Lydia Chapter No. 83, Order of Eastern Star, to serve the large group.

Most of the visitors will be entertained in Marion homes of members of the three churches here. A few have been assigned to homes in Bucyrus and Upper Sandusky.

UNION SERVICE TOPIC CHOSEN

Rev. Holloway To Speak on "God's Reserve" at Salem Church.

"God's Reserve" will be the subject on which Rev. J. B. Holloway of Trinity Baptist church will speak in the union church service at Salem Evangelical and Reformed church tomorrow night at 8.

He will discuss the way in which he believes God is making many thousands of persons, not publicly recognized as such, reserves in the Kingdom's forces.

Rev. H. C. Ahrens, pastor of the host church, will preside. The church choir, directed by Miss Edema Koenig, will sing, accompanied by Miss Helen Ebling at the organ.

Union young peoples' service at 7 p. m. will be under the direction of the youth group of First Evangelical and Reformed church at the Salem church.

His sermon at the morning worship hour will be on "A Decade of Loving Service."

Rev. Ahrens and has family came to Marion from Aurora, Ind., where he was pastor.

Can God Bless America?

A SERMONETTE

By REV. ERNEST FINKENBINER
Pastor of Emmanuel Baptist Church

Malachi 3:7—"Return unto me, and I will return unto you, saith the Lord of Hosts."

GREAT audiences sing "God Bless America" while many of the persons whose voices blend in patriotic fervor are guilty of ignoring the Christ of God through whom alone blessing can flow. Let it be understood that the writer is loyal to this nation in strictest obedience to Holy Spirit instructions contained in (1 Peter 2:13-14).

Submit yourselves to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake: whether it be to the king, as supreme; or unto governors, as unto them that are sent by Him for the punishment of evildoers, and for the praise of them that do well.

Every preacher has received a commission from God which reads thus (11 Tim. 4:2):

Preach the Word. By the authority of the eternal Word of God (Psa. 119:89) we inform every reader that the greatest possible individual contribution toward the welfare of ones country is obedience to God's Word. He would have every soul to meet Him on the grounds of grace manifested at Calvary where punishment for the sins of the world were laid upon one man Jesus Christ of the Word of God for it is written in (Heb. 4:12).

The Word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any twoedged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart.

The bare teaching of the Word of God clearly reveals the damage resulting from certain present day practices for they defeat any possibility of experiencing the blessing of God. First of all we must face the truth of (1 Peter 4:17).

The time is come that judgment must begin at the house of God. In too many instances the blood of fraternalism has taken precedence over the blood of Jesus Christ in the house of God, causing the salt to lose his savor. But further than that it is written in (1 Cor. 1:29-31).

No flesh should glory in His presense—He that glorieth, let him glory in the Lord. (Col. 3:17) Whatsoever ye do in Word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the Father by Him.

Saved souls will have no desire to enter into the fellowship of any organization that bears the marks of the world, if they want to do the will of the Lord. The Word of God exhorts men in (11 Cor. 6:17)

Come out from among them, and be ye separate Saith the Lord. (1 John 2:15) Love not the world either the things that are in the world.

If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him. We come now to a very delicate subject as we turn the search light of Gods Word upon certain policies of dress, and we find the most offenders among the members of the femmine sex. May we present the bare content of the Word of God. (Deut. 22:5)

The woman shall not wear that which pertainth unto a man, neither shall a man put on a woman's garment: for all that do so are abomination unto the Lord thy God.

Inimediately comes the cry, we are not under the law but under grace. We acknowledge that fact but cannot escape the truth that we serve the same God who saw fit to speak to creatures of another day about dress. Men and women dressed very much alike in those days, while the conventional dress of the sexes in this age differs greatly. In the light of that truth should we not expect God to gaze upon our deviation from conventional dress with greater disfavor. Hear the Lord God speak. (Mal. 3:6)

I am the Lord, I change not. Surely He foresaw that the tendency to confuse habits of dress would destroy sex respect with the inevitable result of promiscuous intimacy which can do no thing but contribute to the downfall of our nation. It is horrible for men to frequent the places of vice that line our streets but it is surely fuel for hell to throw men and women into a common environment especially when emboldened by alcohol. Hear God speak (Isaiah 5:22)

Woe unto them that are mighty to drink wine, and men of strength to mingle strong drink.

The course of this age rolls drunkenly onward as frantic creatures attempt to finance war bond sales by holding street dances while our young men bleed and die. Why? Because we have sinned against God and He cannot bless our nation. Instead of dancing to provide instruments of death we should be finding our way to church altars to plead with weeping for deliverance from doom, the wages of sin. Our pleas is best presented by the words of (Jer. 22:29)

On earth, earth, earth, hear the Words of the Lord.

The course is very clear. Repentance will result in relief while continued disobedience will bring newer and greater Pearl Harbors, Corregidors, Bataan and the like. Will our grand old nation hear the plea of Him whose name is stamped on our coins, for He entreats with the words of our text, "Return Unto Me and I will return unto you, saith the Lord of hosts."

DR. BELL TO CLOSE PASTORATE SUNDAY

Public Invited to Farewell Reception at Church.

Dr. Harry L. Bell, pastor of Central Christian church will preach his closing sermon at the unified service tomorrow morning following a musical program at 8:30. His subject will be "Who Gave Himself For Me." At the Sunday morning service of St. Paul's Lutheran church the Litany of Intercession will be sung by minister and congregation in behalf of the nation and all who bear arms for it. The Litany is a form of prayer, penitential in nature, and is characterized by the alternate singing of the petitions and responses by the minister and people. Its use during the penitential seasons of the church year, as well as in times of war and tribulation, dates back to the earliest days of the church. Rev. Oliver A. Rajala is pastor of St. Paul's.

Rev. Russell M. Ward, Ken Cummings and Charles Benson, American Back to God of Detroit, who have been in charge of the Evangelistic conference for the last week will be at Oakland Evangelical church Sunday morning to furnish special music at both Sunday school and church services. At the young group meeting at 6:30 young people will present special features of the service. There will be no mid-week service, because of the state conference being held at Calvary church Wednesday through Friday.

* * *

Rev. J. A. Doddson, moderator of the Northwestern Baptist association, will speak at Mt. Vernon Baptist church Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at 8 p. m. The association missionary speaker will be at the church Sunday.

EFFECT ESTIMATES ASKED OF TREASURY

Senate Finance Committee Requests Rebate Results.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug 15 — Chairman George, Democrat, of Georgia, said today the Treasury had been asked to submit to the senate finance committee estimates of the effect of proposed post-war tax rebates for corporations as well as individuals in the world of widely varied incomes for single taxes.

Indicating he would be guided largely by the net effect on the revenue of such proposals, George said it seemed important to estimate the impact of high income levies written into the new tax bill before it passed the house.

The house-approved bill would raise $6,271,000,000 in yearly federal revenues, a large portion of this amount being obtained through substantially increased income taxes on individual and business firms.

Individual rates would range from 19 to 88 percent on net income, while corporations would pay a combined total of 45 percent in normal and surtax levies with excess profits taxed at 30 percent.

The treasury, itself, has proposed return of 10 percent of the excess profits tax collections to corporations after the war, and George and others have indicated interest in broadening this principle to include individuals.

what is America fighting for?

The Right to Own Property

(One of the Essentials of a Democracy)

American principles are precious and worth fighting for. One of the most sacred is the right to own property, to enjoy your own home, to live by the land that belongs to you, to reap the rewards of your labor.

The right to property ownership, and the protection of that right, has been America's inspiration in building the greatest nation on earth. This principle has stimulated the thinking and working of America's genius. It has inspired the sweat and toil of Americans who knew they would have an inalienable right to the fruits of their labors. Respect for the property of others has formed the very foundation of our American way of life.

In this land of the free, this passion for liberty, this right of a man to stand on his own feet and with his own efforts create security for himself and his family will bring to this nation of ours ultimate Victory!

ANALYZING THE POLITICAL SITUATION—2

G.O.P. Voters Found More Interested than Democrats in November Elections

This article, dealing with the factors, favorable to the Republicans, in this year's election campaign, is the second of three by the Gallup Poll analyzing the political situation. The third will be published Monday.

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Aug. 15—Republican party leaders can count on at least four major factors which will work in their favor in the fall election.

These factors must be weighed against certain advantages favoring the Democrats which were reported in this space on Friday.

On the Republican side the factors line up as follows:

1. The G.O.P. is at present a more conesive and unified party than the Democrats, and fired with a greater intensity of partisan feeling so far as politics is concerned. What is more important, relatively more Republican voters are interested in the coming congressional elections than Democrats and are, therefore, more likely to go to the polls to vote for their candidates.

Dr. Gallup

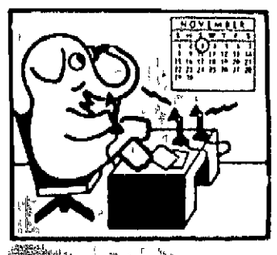
Despite the fact that the New Deal has been giving direct help to many millions of people in the last ten years, a recently completed Institute study shows that many more Republicans than Democrats think it makes a real difference which party runs the country.

The intensity of feeling among the Republican rank and file has been strikingly reflected in the turnout in recent special elections and primaries. Outside the South, Republicans have generally turned out to vote at a much greater rate than Democrats.

This means that if the total turnout of all voters in November is relatively low for a mid-term national election—as all the evidence to date indicates—the Republicans will stand to benefit, since a large proportion of their ranks will take the trouble to vote.

State Races

2. The Republicans are likely to make a good showing in state and local elections. Institute studies show that, outside of the South, the country's voters are more inclined toward the Republicans in races for state office than they are in Congressional races.



This is particularly true in the East Central and West Central states—the great American Middle West—where Institute studies have found a substantial majority—56 per cent—saying that the Republicans can do a better job of running their state than the Democrats can.

This contrasts with the public's view, as reported Friday, that the Democrats can do a better job running the national government in war time. Surveys have brought out the fact, often overlooked by politicians, that the public differentiates between state and national politics, often voting for one party in a national election and for another in a state election.

3. A third factor of advantage to the Republicans is the increasing amount of migration or shift of population as a result of the war production demands. Many thousands of workers and their families have moved to other states to take jobs in war factories. In many instances they will not have resided in the new state for a long enough period to make them eligible to vote in November.

This will tend to hurt the Democrats more than the Republicans because most of the migratory families are in the working class which has been strongly pro-New Deal.

Some of them, may, of course, vote by absentee ballot in the state from which they have moved, but owing to the extra trouble involved in securing absentee ballots the proportion will probably not be large.

4. Another wartime factor which stands to aid the Republicans is the entrance of large numbers of young voters into the army.

An Institute survey has showed that men of draft age are predominately Democratic in their political sentiment. The proportion is roughly 60 per cent Democratic, 40 per cent Republican.

With American armed forces going overseas in large numbers, and with the difficulties involved in absentee balloting for soldiers even if they are in the country, it seems more than likely that the full voting strength of the young men cannot be counted among Democratic assets as previously was the case.

Migration of workers and induction of young men into the army are factors which, while they may not have great national impact yet, may play an important part in areas where the race between the two parties is close.

SYNTHETIC OIL SAVES TIME

Gulf Oil Corp. Develops New Cutting Lubricant for War Work.

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Wide World Science Editor

NEW YORK, Aug. 15 — The fish, the whales and the hogs don't know it, but they are indirectly responsible for a new saving of countless thousands of hours in making American planes, tanks, ships and guns.

The huge time saving comes from a new cutting oil, the lubricant used to cool metal while high speed tools smooth, slice and drill the war parts. The oil is a synthetic and is announced by the Gulf Oil Corporation.

Secret from Fish, Etc.

The secrets of this oil come mostly from fish, whales and hogs. Fish oil until recently was the main cutting oil in industry, and Gulf laboratory scientists at Pittsburgh analyzed this and the other oil for the peculiar properties needed.

Four main qualities were found, and then synthesized, as fish and whale oils are war scarcities and hogs are needed for bacon. First was penetration. The oil has to go where water and other thin liquids would never leak a drop in a week.

Second is cooling. The oil is cool because it has qualities or absorbing heat, and also because of the quick way it gets close to metal, due to penetration and to wetting ability.

This wetting ability is another of the special qualities, and means rapid spread. The spreading of water is the classical example of wetting ability. In that respect this oil is wetter than water.

Fourth Is Strength

The fourth big quality is film strength. This means that a film of liquid oil, thinner than tissue paper, becomes, when under pressure, almost as tough as steel.

Spectacular demonstrations include—a steel surface, covered with an old type cooling oil, across which a machine tool cutting point was moving at 100 feet a minute. A plume of smoke rose from the tool's point.

The new oil was substituted, the cutting speeded to 300 feet a minute and there was no sign of smoke.

The life of some aluminum-working tools was extended by the oil from 3 hours to 11 between grinds. The oil makes it possible to machine aluminum so smoothly that in many cases no polishing is needed, thus eliminating one operation. Several aluminum-working shops have set new production records attributed to the new oil.

COMPLETE COUNT FAST

TOPEKA, KAS., Aug. 15—The report to the secretary of state's office indicated the recent primary election count was finished quickly indeed out in Iowa township, Sherman county. The five members of the election board were the only voters.

With an initial output estimated at 8 ton a month a ceramic industry will be started in Ceylon under government control.

WILDERNESS GIRL

By LETA ZOE ADAMS

YESTERDAY — Sandy Morse has come to Mora determined to find the Golden Land, and after the first day in the cooks and Mary Taylor. But nobody seems to know much about the Golden Land. Fleming, and now Sandy is on the trail to find her. There is competition—Helen Brotherton, wealthy widow of Mora, is also interested in Sandy, and plans are started on accompanies him.

CHAPTER FOUR
"Call Me Helen"

SANDY got to his feet, and strode off toward his room. As he passed an open door a voice called sweetly, "On Sandy! Come here and tell me about it."

He stepped through the open door.

Helen Brotherton lay in a hammock, a lazing feminine in a thin white negligee. She was a lovely woman, with fair, blooming skin and soft honey-colored hair. Gil said she had been some kind of show girl when Lang Brotherton took a fancy to her. But since she never mentioned that part of her life no one else mentioned it either. Her marriage to Lang Brotherton had obviously been another rich-old-man-young-girl affair. However, so far as anyone knew, she had made him a docile wife as long as he lived.

"There isn't much to report, Mrs. Brotherton," he said stiffly.

Her cornflower-blue eyes widened. "Do call me Helen, won't you, Sandy? I've asked you so often. And since we're going to be together a long time don't you think it sounds ridiculous to keep calling me 'Mrs. Brotherton'?"

"Maybe it does." Sandy achieved an abortive smile.

She raised herself in the hammock so that a fold of the negligee fell back from her arm to expose the lovely curving line.

"You look hot and uncomfortable, Sandy. Why don't you sit down and order an iced drink?"

Sandy winced. She seemed to have a talent for saying the wrong thing to him.

"Thanks, no," he answered shortly. "You wanted to know about the result of my talk with McIntyre?"

"Only I do wish you'd make yourself comfortable while you're telling me about it."

"And I wish you'd . . ." Sandy put a brake on his tongue quickly enough to prevent the rest of the words from tumbling forth. What he had been about to say would have sounded childish and petty; and it would have been irrevocable.

He ran a finger around his collar, loosening it. He'd have to conquer this sort of irritation, that was all.

Helen was getting out of the hammock. She put her feet carefully on the floor and stood up. She came a step toward Sandy, her hand outstretched in a gesture of supplication.

"Sandy, why don't you like me? What have I done?"

Sandy shifted uneasily. All his instincts clamored for him to back away, but a small, shrewd voice whispered that it might now mean annihilation to his expedition if he obeyed his impulse. He hated that small voice but it was strong enough nevertheless to hold him there.

"Why you've done nothing. I don't know what you're talking about anyhow" he mumbled hedging. He felt as he always did with Helen that he was backed into a corner and could not escape.

"I'm sure you do know what I'm talking about" Helen went on slowly softly. "And Sandy I don't dislike you. I never have. From the first moment I met you I've thought you were about the grandest person I'd ever seen."

Then Sandy did the only thing that seemed possible at the moment.

"Good God!" he muttered, and turning quickly, made for the open door.

To The Fiesta

Gil, Helen and Sandy were lingering over cigarets that evening after dinner when McIntyre came toward them from the street. Sandy made the introductions and the big rancher heaved his bulk into a chair.

"I have located Miss Fleming. She is staying at the home of Senor de Uraza and his wife, Josefa. However, when I sent my messenger, she was not in. She is at the fiesta. If you want to come with me, we may be able to find her."

"Want me to string along, chief?" Gil inquired.

"Since it's a fiesta, I don't see why we can't all go," Sandy said.

He smiled at Helen as he spoke with some vague idea of making up for his rudeness of the afternoon.

She brightened visibly when he smiled. "That would be so nice. Must I change, Mr. McIntyre?"

McIntyre glanced at her tailored linen frock and said gallantly that she was perfect as she was. Then they all had a drink—something with the fiery tequilla for a base—and in that slightly festive mood were ready.

The village streets presented a sharp contrast to that earlier hour when Sandy walked through them. The magic of the fiesta and night had awakened the city to life.

McIntyre explained that on account of the frequent torrential rains it was necessary to hold their fiestas under cover. For that purpose a long, thatched ramada had been built."

Tyra Fleming

They had not gone many steps before they were halted by a brace of Tehuanos, friends of McIntyre. After the elaborate introductions the Tehuanos insisted that the strangers drink a cup of mescal.

"Since we have been asked it would be bad manners to refuse," McIntyre told Sandy.

"But this Miss Fleming, do you see her?" Sandy asked, as they shouldered their way to one of the booths.

"Not yet, but there is plenty of time."

At last they reached the cleared dancing space. Now the guitars and drums were twanging and banging out a highly fanciful version of a fox-trot that Sandy had heard in the States many years before.

"Our civilization hasn't touched them much, you see. Only the music. . . ." McIntyre was saying, then he broke off "I think that is Miss Fleming, a native dress, dancing with the young Tehuano in the red sash."

Sandy tried to follow, through the spinning figures, the couple McIntyre pointed out. For no reason that he could define his pulse stepped up a beat. The girl was turned away from him now but there was something in the way she danced with head thrown back and body held erect which would have arrested his attention even if he had not been interested in watching for her.

Then she rotated and he caught a flash of laughing eyes in a frame of brown hair tied with a red scarf. His reaction was: "Why, she's young!" Somehow he had visualized her as a middle-aged spinster with a long nose and a hatchet jaw.

Again she revolved in the maze of dancers, closer this time. She was apparently answering something her partner had said for she shook her head vigorously, setting a pair of long, hammered gold earrings swaying. Her lips were widened in an ecstatic smile, her face aglow. Obviously she was having an exceeding good time.

"Miss Fleming!" McIntyre called.

She glanced over her shoulder and fluttered a hand in recognition. Around she went again, almost lost to view among the whirling figures.

Helen said in a detached tone, "She's very pretty."

"Uh?" McIntyre appeared to come out of a coma. "Yes, yes—of course. Hardly a girl you'd expect to find tramping around a jungle eh?"

Rent Control Clerk Back from Vacation

Carl Haberman, clerk to the Marion rent control board, who has been on a brief vacation two weeks, will return home over the week-end. Persons who have rent complaints to file may do so in the common pleas courtroom on the third floor of the courthouse starting Monday. Complaints received through Tuesday will be heard on Monday night, Aug. 24.

About 18 cases will be heard by the board next Monday night at 7:30 in the common pleas courtroom. Several of the cases involves landlords who have filed complaints against groups of tenants.

Flanged steel wheels that can be raised or lowered by the driver can be used to guide along railroad tracks a motor truck running on large pneumatic tires that has been designed to carry loads of explosives without shocks.

PORCHES, TERRACES PATH FOR TERMITES

Use Metal Flashing To Ward Off Invasion.

Most termite attacks start around entrance steps, porches and terraces. The joint between these and the wall of the building provides the termites with a hidden avenue leading directly from the soil to wood of the building.

Decay at this point can be prevented, according to technicians of the Federal Housing administration, by inserting a metal weather flashing. This flashing should be extended so it also acts as a shield and halts the termites, forcing them into the open before they reach the wood.

The flashing shield should be exposed on the finished surface of the porch, turned up behind the wood trim for moisture protection, then down and across the top of the foundation wall below the wood sill, and allowed to project into the basement or space beneath the house.

The ends of this shield must be sealed in the masonry foundation wall so that the termites cannot crawl around it. Forced into the open the termites will either give up the attack or their tubes can be readily seen upon inspection and destroyed.

Building Quiz

Q. Under the recent War Production Board construction order affecting maintenance and repair, may a home owner use a substitute material? For instance, may he replace a worn-out metal roof with a shingle roof?

A. Yes. Where repairs are necessary, it is permissible to use any other type of material if the architectural or structural plan is not altered substantially.

Q. Builders must obtain authorization to begin residential construction estimated to cost $500 or more under the new construction order. What does "estimated cost" include?

A. The estimated cost shall include the cost of certain equipment. This includes articles, chattels, or fixtures physically incorporated in the building and used as part of the building. Such estimated cost need not include the use of used materials which have been taken from another building and are to be used in construction work, provided there is no change of ownership. It is not necessary likewise to include the cost of labor in incorporating such used material.

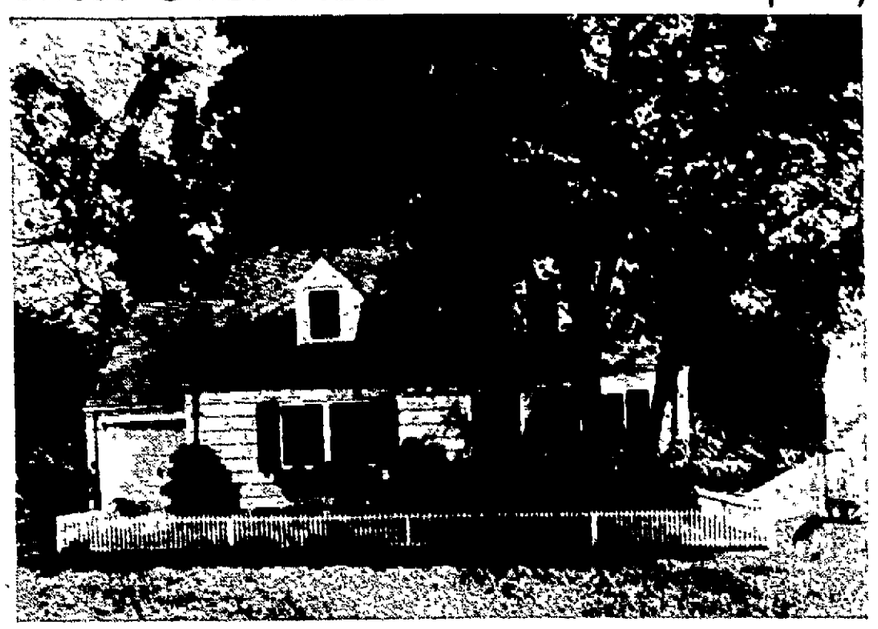
Q. I have an oil burner that works well and seems to be in good condition, but I have noticed that the top of my chimney is blackened with soot. Why should this be?

A. When an oil burner is running, the interior parts of the boiler are hot and all particles of oil are vaporized. The oil then burns clean and without forming soot. But when a burner starts up after a period of idleness, the boiler has cooled off. The first shots of oil are then not completely vaporized, and instead of burning cleanly, more or less smoke is formed. This disappears when the boiler becomes heated, but during the period of heating up, smoking is inevitable. It is doubtless this condition that has sooted your chimney top. One effect of smoking is to deposit soot on interior flue passages of your boiler. This soot should be cleaned out from time to time. Cleaning the flue passages is as necessary with an oil burner as with coal.

Fences Often Add To Charm of Property



A white frame house gives out a particularly cozy air, if intimately enclosed with a simple picket fence. The fence at top has a hidden gate at one side; the one above has a more decorative opening at end of walk.

By PATRICIA MONTCLAIR

It's the relatively unimportant items the homeowner adds to his house which make it characteristically his own. Architect and builder may do the large, obvious things, but only the owner himself can make what they turn over to him into a home with true personality of its own.

There's no better time than the present, either, to keep this fact in mind. If you've had to give up your plans for a new house, or the elaborate remodeling job you had contemplated, start on the outside of the house you have and see what might be done to give it a rejuvenated air. Fences or garden gates will often give a place new and intimate charm.

10 Ways To Help War Effort By Helping With Fuel Conservation

A fuel user's pledge in the interest of the war effort and conservation of fuel and metal includes 10 suggestions by the Plumbing and Heating Industries bureau.

1—Order fuel early and keep an adequate stock on hand to equalize and conserve transportation and delivery facilities.

2—Have the heating plant cleaned for the summer shutdown period in order to prevent corrosion. More heating plants rust out than wear out. With proper care, summer and winter, hot water boilers have been known to give more than a half century of service.

3—Ask a reliable contractor or dealer in heating equipment to make a thorough inspection of the heating plant, including chimney smoke pipe, controls, valves and burner or stoker.

4—Have whatever repairs or alterations necessary to efficient operation of the heating plant made at once. This aids metal conservation because it enables dealers and manufacturers to maintain inventories in accordance with actual needs. It is assurance for the home owner that materials needed for necessary repairs will be available in time. Home owners in eastern states whose heating plants are suitable for burning coal are urged to take immediate steps for conversion.

5—Reduce heat losses from the house by means of insulation, weatherstripping of windows and doors, and closing of fireplace dampers.

6—Turn off heat in unused rooms such as guest rooms, garage, recreation rooms, and maintain lower temperatures in bedrooms.

7—Check heat losses from boiler, furnace, piping or ductwork by adequate insulation.

8—Have thermostatic controls installed to prevent overheating or underheating because both are dangerous to health. Overheating wastes fuel.

9—Lower thermostat setting whenever heat is not needed, as for instance at night or when house is not occupied. A careful check of fuel and temperatures at the I-B-R Research home at the University of Illinois has indicated that a lowering of indoor temperature by five degrees will result in a saving of 13.7 per cent of fuel or 2.7 per cent per degree over a 24-hour period. When the indoor temperature is permitted to drop a maximum of six degree at night, there is a saving of from eight to 10 per cent in fuel.

10—Operate heating plant efficiently in accordance with suggestions by manufacturer or heating contractor.

THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. RIES
O. S. U. Extension Floriculturist.

Q. A year ago last fall I purchased three very good daphne plants (garland flower) from one of our best nurseries. They were balled and burlaped. Last spring they bloomed beautifully. This year they have, so far, shown no bloom at all but seem to be developing entirely in foliage. Last fall I fertilized them with a complete commercial fertilizer. Previous to that time they were mulched with manure. Shall I cut them back and transplant them to a new location? They get sun until about 1:00 o'clock each day. L. H. B., Bellaire.

A. It is impossible to say why your daphne plants are not blooming unless you have been giving them so much fertilizer that you are getting excessive top growth. If so, the only thing you can do is leave them alone until the surplus nitrogen is either used up or is leached out of the soil. The garland flower always tempts people to buy it because of its lovely fragrant, early spring bloom but it is a most irritating plant. Occasionally, these plants live and bloom for a number of years but usually, branch by branch, they wilt and die whether they are growing in good soil or in clay, loam or sand. Whether the soil is acid (sour), alkaline (sweet), or neutral, they seem to die equally quick. Even in the nursery where they are grown by the thousands, it is not uncommon to see the young plants die in just the same way. Despite this, I buy a few new ones each year, enjoy their bloom and am delighted if they live over and bloom another year.

CENSORSHIP TERMED NECESSARY WAR EVIL

Price Says It Is Vital Weapon of Attack.

By The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 15 — Director of censorship Byron Price described censorship yesterday as a "necessary evil of wartime," but declared that it was a vital weapon to attack and hamper the enemy and one which would be used in an American way for military reasons alone.

"In a democracy, the public is entitled to know about the tough realities of this war, and it must not be subjected to such a blackout of news as now pervades totalitarian countries," he said in an address prepared for a meeting of the Indiana State Bar Association.

"In its approach to this problem," he added, "the government has followed consistently the democratic belief that American news columns and American broadcasting can remain the freest in the world and still keep vital information from the enemy."

Price raised the "loyal cooperation" of newspaper publishers and radio broadcasters, saying that it had been so universal that "incalculable good is done every day by the withholding of information about troops and ships, and munitions and tanks and planes."

Simultaneously, he inquired whether it "is too much to ask that the process now be carried one step further and that the public itself participate in censorship?"

"In a sense," Price said, "every one of us became a broadcaster as soon as he was old enough to talk, and he became a publisher as soon as he learned to write. No American is doing his share unless, as a part of his self discipline, he remembers always that the enemy is listening and is thankful for even the smallest scraps of military information."

He declared that there was nothing inconsistent between the operations of censorship and the processes of freedom. "The binding link between the operations of censorship and the operations of our armed forces," he said, "should never be forgotten, nor should any censor be permitted to forget that he is dealing simply and solely with the processes of war."

Price maintained that "absolute discretion" in censoring the mails and cables was essential to keep open this country's lines of communication.

Ohio Trees Needed for the War Effort

By The Associated Press

PIQUA, O., Aug. 15 — Ohio's American walnut trees are needed for the war effort—to make gunstocks.

Burdett Green of Chicago, secretary-manager of the American Walnut Manufacturers Association, said Ohio's huge walnut yield, third highest in the nation, would become increasingly important to the war effort. The state produced 4,980,000 board feet of walnut last year.

Farmers and wood-lot owners were asked to offer walnut trees to the nearest lumber mill and plant others in their places. Green declared there is no walnut shortage.

He dashed out to find the car afire.

He saved four tires.

Home Invader Jailed Without Radio Luxury

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15—Home is where you hang your hat, and a stranger hung his in the house of the Oliver Judsons, who are away for the summer.

He cooked oatmeal, the first four days, then pawned a clock to get funds for a more varied diet. As he was playing the Judsons' radio yesterday, police arrived.

"We can give you new quarters and three pretty fair meals a day," said Magistrate William J. Bell, "but I can't guarantee the radio."

A Citizen of High Value Leaves

IT IS unfortunately true that there are too many citizens of a community who are not missed to any appreciable degree when they move elsewhere. That usually is a consequence of their having failed to make any worthwhile contribution to the life and welfare of the locality they are leaving.

Then there is the minority made up of those who perform public service of value and whose departure to a new place of residence leaves a vacancy difficult to fill.

Dr. Harry L. Bell, pastor of the Central Christian church, is one of that minority and his going away from Marion is most sincerely regretted by the people here. The regret comes not only from their appreciation of his able performance of duty as a minister of the Gospel and his outstanding record of civic service, but also from the realization that they are losing a friend and neighbor whom all like exceedingly for his never-failing good cheer and cordiality and who always leaves others in a happier frame of mind after he has met and talked with them.

And as we list that as one of the reasons for our regrets over the end of Dr. Bell's residence here, let's not say it is the least, for we don't have an overabundance of men in important stations of life who have charm of personality along with brains and ability.

So we offer this as our farewell to Dr. Bell, along with our best wishes for his and his family's future success and happiness. It is one of many such expressions coming from Marion residents. We have known of no other citizen, whether in the clergy or any other field of service, who has had more farewell tributes than Dr. Bell, and that alone epitomizes the high regard the people of Marion have for him and his record in this community.

The Way Back ...

SECOND thought on the action in the Solomon Islands is more sobering than the initial exhilaration of knowing about the first "offensive" in the Pacific. When it is said that the United Nations have begun to "fight their way back," it can mean only one thing—that they are trying to regain what they have lost. If the Philippines, Singapore, the Netherlands East Indies and Sumatra had been defended better, the job wouldn't have to be done.

It was a tremendously expensive lesson, though perhaps not too expensive. Indications that it was learned thoroughly are favorable. The United Nations have started back by means of the implement they neglected when they were being driven south to Australia. They are using air power. If they had more air power, the job would be easier. If they can drive the Japanese out of the Solomons, they will have the advantage of air bases there—an advantage previously enjoyed by the Japanese. The way back would be infinitely longer than it actually is on the map if it had to be covered without the distance-consuming aid of air power.

Only One Tax Purpose Now

OPINIONS being heard by the senate finance committee on taxes will agitate the question of revenue policy for some time to come. It is a peculiar circumstance that no one can say exactly what the administration's revenue policy is, however.

For many years it has been a combination of money raising and social changing. Taxes have been used not only to support the government, but to enable government to support part of the people and embarass some of the others—in the name of social consciousness.

As long as this could be done largely at the direct expense of a minority of wealthy taxpayers, though at the indirect expense of everybody else, no one complained very much; those who did complain had no important voting power anyway. But the situation now is more difficult.

The government's revenue needs are greater than they ever were before. It must raise maximum amounts at minimum expense. There is only one tax purpose now—to get all the feathers off the goose without killing the goose, the only rule of taxation that lasts through thick and thin.

If congress will stick to that fundamental rule in tax legislation, taxpayers will keep their noses to the grindstone without whimpering. But let word get around that the reformers have nibbed in and are trying to run a social revolution and a war at the same time—and there will be enough complications to keep the tax experts busy for the next 25 years just figuring out what hit them.

News Behind the News

Political Bitterness and Other Forms of Hatred Called Handicaps to War Effort.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—The primaries Tuesday, and developments since, show how some few folks in the magazines, the government and newspapers are still trying noisily to make this war an exclusive social affair—for their political friends only.

They don't want anyone in it, fighting or working for our side, except those whose political views they approve. They don't want Lindbergh. They would bar certain congressmen who did not vote before the war for their social views.

They constantly rail and agitate against congressmen, public figures, and against a few newspapers which held similar non-interventionist or isolationist (whichever you will) views before the conflict.

All this and more of the same they have continued 24 hours a day for some months now in the name of unity.

This agitation is preventing unity. It is further preventing the generation of a fighting spirit in the people which is necessary to win the war.

War is a fight to the death, individually and nationally. The first instinct for conflict requires that you use every weapon, every energy and every person at your command, or anyone you can get on your side, to help you win.

Fight Against Odds

In a fight against odds, you do not turn around to see if everyone fighting with you is socially or politically desirable to you—not if you want to win. On that commonsense principle, we swallowed the Communists as allies without pulping.

Why should some of us be straining so hard at a few of our own isolationists? The facts suggest the left wing political groups of the United States want to win the war, but they also want to eliminate the right wing and all opposition in the process.

Anyone who wants to fight or work or rall on our side should be allowed to do so if he satisfies the only important requirement—loyalty. I do not raise any question regarding the loyalty of the leftists or rightists, but I do question the wisdom of trying to win a war this way.

Our only political test now should be one of loyalty applied fairly and honestly to conservatives, liberals or political Hottentots.

If this playing of politics, this crying of "Fascist," this dealing with social oppositions under the guise of patriotism, does not cease, we shall lose this war. In the face of this internal dissension we shall never be able to muster the popular unified fighting spirit required for victory.

To scourge social or political opponents in wartime with a reign of publicity terrorism, or by bitter election campaigns, is purely negative.

If the Johnnie-come-lately patriots, who are trying it, would devote the same amount of thought and energy to some affirmative action to help win the war, to sell bonds, or to create a hearty, friendly fighting spirit among our people, then they might contribute something constructive to the war effort.

As it is, they are only widening and deepening the gulf that lay between our peoples, which was the greatest defect and weakness of this country before the war.

Second Front Talk

Mrs. Roosevelt's impatience with lady criers for a second front at the Hunter college forum accurately expressed the Washington viewpoint toward that pressure which is rising up higher on all sides.

It was not so intended, but it may be considered a response indirectly to a high Soviet official who presented a lugubrious view of the Red military predicament at a private luncheon here.

The Soviet official pointed out it would be much better for the British and Americans to face the 20 to 30 Nazi divisions now in occupied territories than to meet the 300 divisions which will be ready to meet us if Russia falls.

This Red authority said invasion by Norway and Italy would not suffice. If we struck at either of those strategically desirable points, we would not relieve the pressure on the Russian front. Only a bold thrust into France would do.

His points are all more or less true, but do not go deep enough into the facts.

Just keep in mind during all this second front argument that it requires 15 gross tons of shipping to send a single soldier to the second front, and two tons of shipping a month to sustain him. Round trips of ships to the British war zone can now generally be completed in a month, although it requires about three months per ship for a round trip to Australia.

While an initial striking venture could be instituted by say 300,000 troops, constant heavy replacements of both men and material would be necessary. The force to be made ready must be several times that large. We have only been in this war eight months.

Today and Tomorrow

Public's Right To Call for "Second Front" Defended, But Only Commanders Can Decide.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

IN CONNECTION with the newspaper advertising campaign for "a second front" which is being conducted by the American Council on Soviet Relations there was an interesting incident in Australia last week.

On Saturday, Aug. 8, our newspapers carried press dispatches quoting what "The Melbourne Herald" and "The Sidney Daily Mirror" had to say about United Nations strategy in the South Pacific. The Melbourne paper complained that General MacArthur, an "offensive-minded leader, "had been placed in the position where apparently he cannot take the offensive." The Sydney paper "charged" that "President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill are blind to the Japs."

These dispatches, let us note, reached the United States for publication last Saturday. At that very moment the marines had either landed or were just about to land in the Solomon Islands, and a great sea-air-and-land campaign was being launched. Now obviously, a campaign of that sort must have been planned and prepared many weeks ago: as a matter of fact, the campaign was decided upon immediately after the Battle of Midway, which ended on June 6.

It is evident then that the agitation in Australia was silly and that the agitators did not know what they were talking about.

In this case it is probable that accidently they did more good than harm. For being sincerely ignorant of America's real war plans, they continued to give the impression to the enemy that all would remain quiet in the South Pacific and that General MacArthur and the Americans at his headquarters were angry about it. Unintentionally, but all the more effectively for that reason, the Australian papers threw up a smoke screen which may have helped Admiral Ghormley to achieve at least a partial surprise. The fact that the Australian complaints were relayed to the United States from "General MacArthur's Headquarters" may have added considerably to the effectiveness of this unintended camouflage.

Achieving Surprise

It is evident that our responsible commanders have come a long way in finding ways to hide their plans and thus to achieve surprise. How have they done it? They have done it by having the moral character not to yield to the temptation of passing along off the record ups to reassure their critics. It would have been easy to silence the Australian press by calling in the correspondents and telling them that Admiral Ghormley was on his way. But that might easily have wrecked the expedition. For the chances are slight that news of that sort would not somehow have been inadvertenly disclosed.

No chances whatever can be taken. The lives of men and the fate of the nations are at stake; the mark of the true commander is that he knows how infinitely better it is to be criticised by his friends than it is to be beaten by the enemy. So he will not alter his plans to please the critics or reveal his plans to quiet them. He chooses his course and is impervious to popular clamor and political pressure.

If his civilian superiors at home are worth their salt, they will do what Lincoln did for Grant, what Wilson and Newton Baker did for Pershing, they will protect their commanders completely from all worries, irritations, jealousies and anxieties which might take their mind off the enemy.

Does this mean that there should be no discussion and no criticism of military affairs? Far from it. It does mean that civilian comment must not be carried beyond reasoned argument and into an attempt to compel the commanders to undertake particular operations. That is the vice of the advertising campaign of the American Council on Soviet Relations. They are not content to say why they think "a second front" should be opened at once. They go on to try to intimidate the government by crying out that the "fifth column" is "delaying the second front," and they call upon the people to organize a high pressure campaign to force the President to do what they demand.

Can't Tell Public

Yet, surely the truth of the matter is this: what our commanders are going to do is something which they could never under any conceivable circumstances tell the general public. They will strike

"Balance" in Production

It's a Big Job To Keep Materials Flowing Where Needed.

By GEORGE ZIELKE
Wide World Writer

WASHINGTON—If you're wondering about the "why" of those shutdowns and slowdowns in war plants, the government's answer is: "Balance."

When the available raw materials are balanced nicely against the urgent war jobs, war production men explain, then the flow of production continues.

But a lack of even a ton of steel at a critical point, at a critical moment, may throw a whole production out of kilter.

And when raw materials are limited and have to be doled out and shipped to hundreds of places, sometimes such things are bound to happen.

That's why war plants sometimes have to be shut down, they say, or production slowed down temporarily.

Of course, if we had all the raw materials we wanted—steel, rubber, copper and so on—the WPB could simply deal out a pile of everything to very potential manufacturers of essential war goods and say, "Get going!"

But since we haven't, the WPB has to try to keep things balanced by allocating a little here, a little there, more here, still more there, out of the available materials.

Assembling the Puzzle

To get the picture, let's suppose you're the boss of the whole program, and let's follow through on one item and see the many parts of the jigsaw puzzle:

The other day Director Elmer Davis of the office of war information chose a General Grant tank as an example. Each one, he said, needs among other things, about 26 tons of steel, almost 600 pounds of copper, lesser quantities of other metals.

A medium tank is made up of about 25,000 separate pieces, made from several dozen kinds of material.

Now, bear in mind that all the necessary pieces have to arrive at the proper place at just the right time, or you won't get your tank.

You start out by thinking about steel. To begin with, you have to have men to mine iron ore. So you acquire a manpower problem right off the bat.

Then, when the ore is mined, it has to be shipped, say from Minnesota mines to Cleveland, to blast furnaces which turn out pig iron. There's a transportation problem for you.

Why Scrap Is Needed

To make steel, manufacturers over a long period of time have struck the average of using 55 per cent pig iron and 45 per cent scrap. Right now there's a shortage of scrap. So you have to change the percentage.

The steel has to be processed into plates or bars and shipped to the plants turning out the finished product.

Perhaps you send some of the steel to instrument factories. Then the instruments have to be shipped to the factory putting together the tank.

If one piece of this jigsaw picture is mislaid, that means you won't get your completed tank.

Well, suppose this production set-up works out fine, hundreds of times over.

You still have to consider the over-all war production picture and keep it in balance. Suppose you need the same materials for something else considered more urgent. Then you've got to take them away from one job and give them to another. And some one plant may have to be shut down or slowed down until more materials are available.

The Making of Planes

The army and navy tell you they want so many planes. All right, you say, get me up a list of all the materials needed.

But that's just a start on the problem. You'll want to build the planes in a number of places. You'll have to divide up the order—let John Jones build fighter planes, Billy Brown bombers and so on.

So now you arrive at the stage of individual planning. Give John Jones the precise amount of materials needed for fighter planes. For each plane you've got to have an engine. Let Sammy Smith build the engines, with so much raw material.

You've got to allot all this material, you've got to ship it to the right place in time to go into its proper spot in this plane. Or you don't get a completed plane.

Then, after you have it all figured out, maybe war developments force you to change specifications. Or you want different kinds of planes — more cargo craft, perhaps. Then you have to figure the whole business over again.

And perhaps in the process some vital part won't arrive in the nick of time. Result: No plane.

Gosh, you say, if only I had enough material so I could give each manufacturer a big stack of this and that.

Well, that's why the emphasis is on increased production of raw materials, say the war production men, and that's the why of shutdowns and slowdowns.

"After all, you played with his electric train all winter!"

Anniversary

On Aug. 13, 1898, Our American Soldiers Won City of Manila Now Occupied by the Japanese.

By DAMON RUNYON

THIS week marks the anniversary of an event in the history of the United States that was once an occasion for some satisfaction among our citizens but that now can arouse only poignant memories.

On Aug. 13, 1898, the American Eighth army corps assaulted and captured the city of Manila, hauling down the red and yellow flag of old Spain over Fort Malate and the walled town and running up the Stars and Stripes.

For 43 years and a few months, the symbol of freedom fluttered in the breezes of the Pacific. Beneath its folds spread progress and enlightenment among a people who had known only great tyranny and oppression. The promise of complete independence lay before them, the final gift of the great nation that had lifted them from the slough of despond.

NOW the flag bearing the rising sun of Japan has displaced Old Glory, and the streets of the city on the Pasig river which Americans made modern and proud echo to the tramp of the Japanese. Our American men and women and children are herded in compounds with far less consideration than our own soldiers gave the defeated warriors of Spain in the long ago.

The vast material possessions of our citizens who lived in Manila and other cities of the Philippines, their homes and their household goods, are in the hands of the little brown fellows as the spoils of war. The dead from the battlefield of Aug. 13, 1898, who are buried in the cemeteries of Manila would rest uneasily if they could realize the mockery of their sacrifice of 44 years ago.

Only the never-fading brilliance of their contribution to the glory of our arms remains on this anniversary of that great day when they began in letters of blood the epic tale of American fortitude and valor in the Philippines that was continued on Bataan. There is much more to be written—much, much more. Make no error there.

AS LONG as one Japanese soldier is on the soil of the Philippines it is a reproach to the United States that must be effaced. As long as one of our citizens or soldiers is held prisoner there, it is a disgrace. Perhaps history will disclose that it is both a reproach and a disgrace that any Japanese soldier ever set foot on the Philippines, or that any of our citizens or soldiers were ever made prisoners.

History will no doubt properly evaluate the full American military tale of the Philippines and tell us whether or not we blundered in not trying to reinforce Bataan when Douglas MacArthur and his men stood with their backs to the China sea. It will tell us whether or not mistakes that might have been avoided cost us the empire won by that same MacArthur's father and his regulars and western volunteers in 1898.

IN THE meantime, the American people should not be permitted to forget a moment that in Manila and elsewhere throughout the Philippines thousands of Americans are prisoners of war and their plight should be a prod to unrelenting warfare against the Japanese until another day as glorious as Aug. 13, 1898.

You Can Get Lit Up

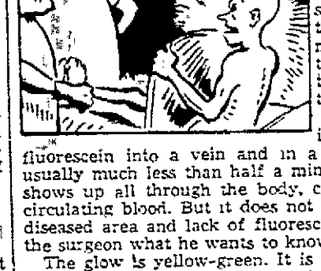
NEW YORK—The surgeon now can light up your body with an internal glow, the better to see certain important facts about where to operate.

The glow is produced by fluorescein, a common drug, which fluoresces under ultra violet light. Drs. Kurt Lange and Linn J. Body of New York Medical College describe the drug.

In some major operations around the abdomen it is necessary to remove tissues which have lost too much of their blood supply. But they appear no different than healthy tissues around them.



The surgeon injects some fluorescein into a vein and in a few seconds usually much less than half a minute, the color shows up all through the body, carried by the circulating blood. But it does not appear in the diseased area and lack of fluorescent glow tells the surgeon what he wants to know.

The glow is yellow-green. It is not ordinarily visible, but shows up under the rays of an ordinary ultra violet lamp.

The drug is also used to find out how long the blood takes to circulate throughout a human body. In normal adults this is 15 to 20 seconds. In some heart cases the time may run to a minute or longer.

Medicine Chair Waiting To Be Filled

By The Associated Press

LONDON—Britain is to have its first chair of social medicine—all the experts are looking for now is a super-doctor to take the first professorship.

King's Physician Sir E. Farquhar Buzzard is leading the search for the professor, aided by Professor Gordon, one of the United States experts on social medicine.

Lord Nuffield, who already has given millions to help medical research, is behind the new move with a grant from his hospital fund of $400,000, and plans are in hand for building the necessary institute.

Investigations are to be conducted into social, genetic, environmental and domestic factors in disease. Instruction in social medicine will be provided for approved students and practitioners.

British workers in the last pre-war year lost 25.6 million working weeks through sickness. Measures to prevent such a drain on the country's work potential top the list of jobs waiting for "Doctor Super."

"The army command was located within operating distance of the Japanese task force," Magnuson said. "I have information that it was notified 'soon' after the Dutch Harbor attack that navy PBY's (flying boats) had a Japanese carrier under continual observation, and that they were waiting for the arrival of land-based aircraft to make the kill.

"The army command, however, believed its orders were not sufficiently broad to warrant sending out a bombing force at this phase of the battle without definite instructions.

"As a result, army planes remained on the ground, and before naval authorities could straighten the matter out, the Japs had slipped away from observation.

"Later the army did succeed in making contact, but not under as favorable circumstances as they might have found if the response had been earlier."

Army and navy officers in Alaska are now working in closest cooperation, he said.

Rep. Magnuson who only a few weeks ago was in active service with the navy as a lieutenant commander said he felt the Alaska situation was serious but not alarming, and that the navy had the battle of Alaska and the Aleutians well in hand.

ATMOSPHERE AGAIN POLLUTED IN BRONX

"Indescribable Odor" Plagues 600-House Section.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 15—For the second time within a month, a strange stench pollutes the air in the Bronx and again nauseated citizens are clamoring for something to be done about it.

Something is being done but without result, for no one—expert or layman—has found the source of the smell. And many have tried.

Yesterday, for instance, Dr. John Oberwager, health department sanitation chief, postponed his vacation to go hunting for the odor. He didn't find it but right after he left, the wind changed, and there was the smell back again. He and his staff are going back today.

The afflicted area is in Clason Point, a section of about 600 one-family houses and a couple of apartment buildings in the southeast Bronx. Citizens say the odor is indescribable, a combination of rotten eggs and a mud flat at low tide.

It disturbs sleep, creates nausea, discolors paint, tarnishes metals.

Willard Beach, one of the section's property owners, declared the odor was far more sickening than in the first visitation in July. Beach said the fumes had penetrated his refrigerator—and the enamel turned black.

To Mayor F. H. La Guardia, Beach sent this telegram:

"Another attack of hydrogen sulphate gas of greater intensity and covering greater area of Clason Point section now in progress. Paint in homes turning black. Residents nauseated. Odor unbearable. Immediate action imperative."

The mayor asked experts from the bureau of mines in Washington to investigate.

There is one ray of sunshine—Beach said the smell is so offensive that it has chased away the mosquitoes.

LIPPMANN

when and where they have decided to strike, and all the public can do, when it has manifested its willingness to face the costs and the risks of the attack, is to make up its mind once and for all either to trust its commanders or to insist on changing them. What the public cannot do is, to compel any commander to conduct any campaign except the one he has prepared.

"If the commanders cannot be trusted to make the right decision, how on earth can they be expected to carry out successfully an operation which they are pushed into against their own judgment and contrary to their plans and preparations? Does any one in his right mind think that Admiral King or General Marshall can order that a battle be fought because some one else, who will neither command the battle nor fight it, writes letters to the President and makes speeches at mass meetings? Is it not evident that the only battles that Admiral King and General Marshall can fight are the battles they mean to fight, and that they would not be the men they are if they fought any other battles?

There is no half-way form of compromise in these ultimate issues of life and death. The war cannot be conducted by calling a conference of all the advocates of all the different fronts and of all the different strategical and tactical methods, and then working out, as if it were a domestic tax bill, a plan of campaign which pleases as many people as possible. Whoever is in command will have to command, and as long as he is in command he will have to be certain of the unfailing obedience of all his men and the unswerving support of all the people.

ner, promenaded and jitterbugged to music by Dick Zahn's orchestra and there was entertainment by the 'Chuck Wagon Pals' and the Radio Rangers from Station WMRN. The north end of the street was roped off to roller-skating for the children. Bob Gross and Lew Marsh of WMRN were at the microphone for announcements and the toss by Mayor Snare and Mr. Cleveland together with the latter half of the entertainment program were broadcast.

Salvage Appeals Made

After stating the purpose of the rally Mayor Snare reminded the crowd that "there is a war and we as citizens of this republic are a part of that war." "It is through your effort and that of the entire country whether we win or lose this war," he said. Citing the fact that all had friends, sons and relatives in the fight, he called upon all as citizens to "back them up with things they need and things we can get along without." He asked the crowd to back up the salvage committee by bringing in scrap metal and rubber and make Marion county "100 per cent for scrap."

Mr. Cleveland spoke as a representative of industry and industrial production and gave figures showing that the capacity of steel ingot production from which we get plate, bars, tructural shapes, rails, etc., as expressed in tons of annual output, amounts to 90 million tons. At 50 tons per freight car this requires 1,800,000 cars for transportation. "Try to visualize these cars in six trains extending from New York to San Francisco," he said. "More than 50 per cent of this production is scheduled directly for our armament but still this is not enough, he told the audience.

Need for Steel Emphasized

After paying tribute to the men in the armed forces he pointed out that our fighting men are calling for more guns, more ships, more of all kinds of armaments made of all kinds of metals. In the face of this demand, he said, it is now evident that America's steel situation is growing more critical by the hour. Mr. Cleveland said that at the present time the estimated available steel and scrap from through regular channels is only about three million tons, enough for about one month's supply at current production rates.

In placing the problem before the American people the War Production Board, which controls the flow of this scrap to war industries, has inaugurated this national salvage program in which we can all take part by turning in the junk, iron and steel we have about our premises. Anything made of iron or steel is acceptable; the quota required is 17 million tons of scrap; Ohio's quota is 2,175,000.

In closing he recalled that the day marked the first anniversary of the Atlantic charter which President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill agreed upon. This charter, he said, outlined the four freedoms for which we are fighting, freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom from want and freedom from fear. "This is particularly an appropriate time for us to concentrate these ideals by dedicating ourselves to the fight to hold them. Let us all join this battle of production by giving ourselves to this campaign."

Committee In Charge

The following committee, assisted by the city police and firemen and Boy Scouts, was in charge of the arrangements for the rally: Mrs. James E. Frew, chairman of the fats salvage committee, George Alber and Henry Krippaum, entertainment, Chief T. J. McFarland, street roping and traffic, Clyde C. Caldwell, band platforms, Fred P. Strother, Robert Marion and Mr. Caldwell, music.

Gift from Other War

On the platform was a small field piece which was donated to the scrap salvage by Mrs. Harry Fair of East Church street. The shell was a souvenir of World War No. 1 and had been brought from overseas by Mrs. Fair's brother.

The favors were miniature green and white hands holding the announcement scrolls.

The awards in bridge were won by Mrs. Hill and Miss Tobin.

LEGION MEN TO SEE GOVERNOR RIVALS

Both McSweeney and Bricker To Be at Convention.

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., Aug. 15—Ohio's gubernatorial nominees will appear together tomorrow for the first time since the primary at the opening session of the 24th annual state American Legion convention.

John McSweeney, Wooster Democrat, announced he would open his campaign at the meeting. Republican Gov. John W. Bricker will attend, although Don Power, his executive secretary, said he did not plan a political speech.

A vote on admission of present-day soldiers to membership in the organization and tomorrow's parade are other convention highlights.

The department's expression on the membership question will be considered with those of other states at the Legion's national convention.

The convention, shorn of its frills because of the war, may close a day early, ending Monday instead of Tuesday to permit war workers to return to their jobs, officials reported.

Commander Floyd Hartpence of Westerville and past commanders will be honored at a pre-convention banquet tonight.

JUST THINGS

By EDNA S. DUTTON

War Times

DOWN in the nation's capital folks are going back to the good old horse and buggy days and the old timers who hung onto those old-fashioned gigs and surreys because they were either sentimental or stubborn, are reaping a harvest. Dilapidated surreys which B. P. H. (Before Pearl Harbor) weren't worth more than a "sawbuck" are bringing upwards of $30 without a murmur. Maybe the horse and buggy method of travel wasn't so swift nor as comfortable as today's equipment but it certainly had its thrills. Just the knowledge that a trip was in the offing brought perfect behavior on the part of the juveniles and early rising for everybody. If the trip was to be made in a one horse rig and the juveniles went along—and they always did—it meant improvising a seat which usually was a board right up against the dashboard or a couple of footstools. Of course the occupants of the extra seat came in for tough going when old dobbin switched her tail and if caught off guard it usually meant that a hat was lost. This meant time out for retrieving. But for ultra elegance there was nothing like that glorified buggy, the phaeton with its polished side lamps which wouldn't light and comfortable looking chassis. For family use the surrey got the call and the button-studded upholstered top and seats bespoke swankiness plus. There were those with stationary double seats and some had trick seats—the front seat folded up and the rear seat eased forward. And for real excitement just try putting on the side curtains with a thunder shower trailing and gaining on you every minute.

Rememberin'

THEY were "remembering when" and one of the gals recalled that she was 12 years old before she knew that "Now I Lay Me,"—the beginning of the prayer that most children learn first—wasn't all one word.

Helpful

WE were glad to read recently an article in praise of the lowly mole whose battle for life is a tought one from start to finish, despite the fact that his mission here is a very useful one. He accomplishes underground what the birds do above the ground. He lives exclusively on grubs, and destroys countless noxious pests, among them the grubs of the Japanese beetle, the cutworm and many others. In England, it is said, this busy little fellow who ruffles up your garden, is welcome in all gardens. And here is something else we just learned. The little brown seeds that pop out of cranberries when they are cut in two for salads, can be planted and they actually grow. It's something to try with the cranberry season just around the corner.

Developements in India

Other far Pacific developments:

India — New violence flared as Mohandas K Gandhi's campaign against British rule today as police fired into a crowd in the great eastern city of Calcutta and demonstrators slashed telephone wires, wrecked fire alarm boxes and crippled street car service. Eight persons were reported killed.

While a survey indicated that the campaign had passed its peak of violence, after a week of widespread riots and bloodshed British authorities were reported studying more drastic measures to forestall renewed outbreaks.

Marines Establish Firm Island Hold

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15— United States marines, supported by strong air and naval forces, have smashed back sufficient Japanese defenders to clamp a firm hold today upon the strategic Solomon islands.

Unidentified bombers of General MacArthur's Australian headquarters pounded at attempted Japanese reinforcements, American fighting men were "progressing satisfactorily," the navy announced last night, in consolidating their position on beach heads.

The terse navy communique on the first big offensive of the United States and the United Nations gave only the barest details. But it left little doubt that they are now completing the early rounds of what, if successful, may lead eventually to an assault upon Tulagi itself.

The marines still in the air combat, flying fortresses and attack bombers were also striking persistently at Japanese air bases and ship concentrations to protect allied communications and to stave off enemy reinforcements.

One Japanese convoy, which an MacArthur spokesman at MacArthur's headquarters said was attacked several times previously, again became the target of heavy bombers based in Australia to the northwest. The convoy included transports and was in an easterly direction toward the Solomons.

Another veiled results of the assault but two more Japanese fighter planes were shot down, three damaged. All aircraft returned to their bases although some were damaged.

The outcome of the battle for the Solomons was expected to determine whether the Japs retain the initiative in their strokes to attacks on Australia, New Zealand or whether the United Nations attain control for future offenses against Japanese positions.

Identification of the progress in the Solomons came from Australian war correspondents, who cited a London paper as saying that the Americans "soon will have complete control of Tulagi island," a major objective.

Why Britain Risks Much To Deliver Supplies to Malta

By DE WITT MacKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

Once more the British have run the gantlet of axis warplanes and naval ships in the Mediterranean to deliver a big convoy of reinforcements and airplanes to the island of Malta, and the cost of this great engagement has been heavy for both sides.

Why should it be necessary for Britain thus to risk fighting equipment more precious than rubies to serve an island which covers only 95 square miles and sits in the midst of an enemy-built hell?

Strategic Point

The answer is that Malta is one of the most important strategic points in the world. This island is the British air-force observation post of the Mediterranean.

Malta no longer can be used as a naval base, excepting for submarines, because Hitler maintains a powerful force of warplanes in Mussolini's Sicily, only 56 miles north of the British island.

However, the Nazi chief hasn't been able to drive the Royal Air Force out of this stronghold.

British air-scouts are constantly on the move over the Mediterranean from Malta. Their chief business is to spot enemy supply ships and transports headed from axis ports in Europe to Africa.

This work is essential right now, because reinforcements and supplies must be kept from Nazi Field Marshal Rommel's desert forces at all hazards His dangerous offensive against Egypt has been held up for lack of resources, and the British are praying that their opposing army under General Auchinleck can be reinforced so as to stroke at Rommel before aid reaches him.

30,000 IN OHIO RECEIVE $1,500,000 IN BACK PAY

Workers Receive Benfits Under "Little Steel" Wage Decision.

By The Associated Press

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 15— An extra $1,500,000 in back wages is going to 30,000 steel workers of this district in pay checks issued today and next Tuesday.

The recent war labor boards decision in the "Little steel" cases, awarding wage increases of 44 cents a day, is responsible.

Employes of Republican Steel Corp. in Youngstown, Warren and Niles are receiving today back pay from Feb. 7 and workers at Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. will get extra amounts on Tuesday, covering back pay from Feb 10. Payroll officials say the average workers will have about $50 added to his usual check, running the total for the two pay days to more than $3,000,000

David E. Jones, chairman of the local war bond committee, is heading a drive to persuade steel workers to use the money to buy war bonds

Harpster Man Ill After Eating "Mushrooms"

James Lininger of Harpster was taken to City hospital yesterday afternoon after he had collapsed in his parked car on a downtown Marion street. Members of his family were with him at the time.

It was determined at the hospital that he was suffering from poisoning from "mushrooms" he had eaten.

Mrs. Lininger was the only other member of the family who had tasted the food and apparently had suffered no ill effects. The mushrooms had been gathered by the family. It was thought by hospital attendants that "toadstools" had been picked with the mushrooms. Mr. Lininger's condition was good this morning, the hospital reported.

DRIVER ARRESTED

Henry A. Lewis, 21, of Flint, Mich., was arrested by the state highway patrol on Route 23 yesterday afternoon on a charge of speeding. He was released under $15 bond to appear today in municipal court.

Our Ally, Mexico

Cardenas Set To Fight

GEN. LAZARO CARDENAS

"Enemy attack would find the nation ready to repel it."

By SAM JACKSON
Wide World Features Writer

This is one of a series of articles on Mexico and its place in world affairs today.

MAZATLAN, MEXICO, Aug. 15—Here at Mazatlan the war looks pretty close. If there is ever a serious Japanese attempt to attack the United States this is where it probably will start.

General Lazaro Cardenas is here, in charge of west coast defense. He is just back from Ensenada, a sleepy town in Lower California, which is regarded as an alternative base for any "back door invasion" of the United States.

General Cardenas in his report on defense says that "any enemy attack would find the army and nation ready to repel it," and speaks promisingly of new roads and new railroads to bring some transportation to the trackless deserts of northern Mexico.

Capable Man

Cardenas, who is widely regarded as the most capable and sincere administrator that Mexico has developed in years, and who voluntarily gave up the presidency in 1940, has thrown himself into his defense job without reserve A good deal depends on the United States, and he says that such cooperation has "definitely crystallized."

Cardenas was left without a father at 13, and went to work to support his mother and seven other children. While in his 'teens he became assistant tax collector and town jailer at tiny Jiquilpan, in the state of Michoacan.

In 1913 Mexico was in civil war. Cardenas released his one prisoner and the two of them joined Venustiano Carranza in ousting Victoriana Huerta from the presidency.

Governor at 25

Cardenas was badly wounded, but in the fast shifting of Mexican power in those days, he soon found himself a general and at 25 was governor of his home state For years later he was a follower of the "iron man" of Mexico, President Plutarco Elias Calles

When he became president—under Calles—he was able to "case out" his former boss without bloodshed.

Cardenas is the man who expropriated the properties of Standard Oil Company and Royal Dutch Shell.

His present home, here at Mazatlan, is far removed from the splendors of Mexico City He is assigned to a soldier's job and he seems to be doing it

Marion DeMolay Chapter 21 Years Old, Third Organized in State

Group Here Has 100 Members; National Order Begun in 1919 by Kansas City Man.

The Marion DeMolay chapter, third to be organized in the state, will celebrate its coming at age at its twenty-first anniversary in December this year.

Earl T. Smart is "Dad" of the chapter which has approximately 100 members Officers are Richard Mayfield, master councilor; John N Schaffner, senior councilor; Marion P. Wiant, junior councilor.

Nelson Vigor served as the first master councilor of Marion chapter. He is now a captain with the armed forces, serving with a medical corps. Marion chapter has members with the armed forces in Ireland, Australia, Panama and other allied countries

Meetings are held the second and fourth Wednesday of each month. The chapter sponsors a philanthropic program and social activities include dances, picnics, hayrides and other affairs.

"Dad" Frank S. Land of Kansas City, Mo., is the founder and secretary-general of the Order of DeMolay. The order, founded in 1919, is the outgrowth of visits made by an orphan boy, Lewis Lower, who sought guidance and advice from Mr. Land regarding his future. From one, the visits grew to include nine boys who listened with interest to stories of great men told by Mr. Land. Asked by Mr. Land is they would like to form a club they enthusiastically agreed and chose the name of a favorite hero, Jacques DeMolay. The name DeMolay council was later changed to Order of DeMolay. There are approximately one and one-quarter million members in the country Until the outbreak of the war there were chapters operating in foreign countries

The order is organized to bring boys and young men together in fellowship and to teach them the correct way of living There are two degrees in the ritual, the first teaches love of God, parents and country, and the second the lessons of tolerance and fidelity.

District Governors Coming

A number of district governors and deputies are expected to attend one or more sessions of the conclave. District governors are Lloyd E. Roulet, Toledo, District No 1, Roy S Rogers, Cleveland, District No 2; Horace L. Stephens, Dayton, District No. 3; Judge Henry L Scarlett, Columbus, District No 4; Carl W. Ellenwood, Wooster, District No. 5; Brady L Hawk, Canton, District No 6, Judge Fred L Hoffman, Cincinnati, District No. 7; Howard E Unrue, Ironton, District No 8. All are 33d degree Masons. There are two deputies in each district Robert Solinger of Marion, district deputy, also is conclave advisor.

The 1942 meeting has been designated a war conclave. Because many of the members are engaged in vital defense activities, many in the armed forces, curtailment of gas and, orders for saving of tires the convention time has been cut from three to two days and only accredited voting delegates and the various advisory councils will attend. Attending this year is Gordon Scherer of Cincinnati, first state master council. He is now a district deputy. Robert Solinger of Marion is a past state treasurer.

On Convention Committee

Assisting Mr. Hall, conclave chairman, is the following committee: Paul B. Veley, Richard L. Mayfield, John N. Schaffner, John S. Rea, F. Harold Fralich, Robert L. Cocherl, Marion P. "Bud" Wiant, Howard L. Neal, Jack E. Holt, Robert A. Beatty, Ray N. Erskine and Oscar J. Betterer. Mr. Solinger is the conclave advisor.

This is the first time the Marion chapter has entertained the state conclave. The first state meeting was held in 1928. There are approximately 5,000 members in Ohio.

8 More "No Expense" Accounts Are Filed

Eight more "no expense" accounts have been filed with the Marion county board of elections by candidates for committee posts in the Tuesday primary, Clerk Blanche Houtz, announced today.

Those who filed are Grover C. Snyder, Willard F. Linton, J. D. Williamson, W. G. Slack, Frank Stanley, Elmer Blazer, Harry L. Dowler and Morris W. Kline.

In yesterday's account of the candidates who had filed "no expense" reports, A. L. Thomasson, Democratic candidate for county auditor, was listed as an unsuccessful candidate. He should have been listed as an unopposed candidate.

BRITISH NAVAL UNIT HITS ITALIAN BASE

Bombards Island of Rhodes in Mediterranean.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Aug. 15—A British naval squadron bombarded the Italian island of Rhodes in the eastern Mediterranean for 12 minutes Thursday morning, Reuters news agency reported today.

A dispatch from John Nixon, a Reuters correspondent with the squadron, said the shelling was accurate and perfectly timed, catching the Italians completely by surprise.

As the squadron steamed away a big fire and numerous smaller ones that sent up columns of black smoke could be seen on the waterfront, Nixon said.

The Exchange Telegraph agency said the squadron, under Rear Admiral P. L. Vian, carried out the bombardment with the accuracy and perfect timing of a postman delivering the morning mail.

The British warships entered enemy waters and approached the target without being detected before they opened fire.

Reuters said planes cooperated in the action, dropping flares, spotting targets for the ships, and bombing the aldrome simultaneously with the sea attack.

"Despite efforts of Italian shore batteries and the presence of U-boats, all our ships and aircraft returned without a scratch," the Reuters correspondent wrote

Exchange Telegraph said the Italian shore batteries did not reply until after several salvos had left the British guns, and then "their shells came singing over our heads."

Freight Cars Must Haul Full Capacity Loads

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—Defense Transportation Director Joseph B Eastman today ordered that freight cars carrying civilian freight must be loaded to their marked load limit, or to full visible capacity.

Tank cars, flat cars, and cars containing less - than - carload freight were exempted from the order.

Eastman said the purpose was to obtain more efficient use of cars and locomotives. Railroad motive power now was being used to a point close to capacity, Eastman said, and "we must get the greatest possible use out of the existing railroad plants."

8 Ships To Be Launched Sunday at Maine Yards

By The Associated Press

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 15— Eight vessels—five of them at one shipyard—will be launched in Maine tomorrow as part of the United Nations effort to maintain supremacy on the seas.

Shipbuilding circles said that when five freighters are sent into the water at the Todd-Bath Shipbuilding Corporation plant here it would be the first time that one yard had launched that many in a single day since the United States stepped up its merchant fleet program.

GOOD SIGN FROM CHILE

By The Associated Press

SANTIAGO, Aug. 15 — Announcement that President Juan Antonio Rios would visit the United States this fall was taken by political leaders today as a sign that Chile was veering sharply toward a break with the Axis. If Chile should join her 19 sister republics in the continental solidarity front, Argentina would be left alone as the only American nation on friendly terms with the Axis.

Inquest Scheduled In John Dodge Death

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Aug 15— Prosecutor William E Dowling said today an inquest would be conducted next week in a new effort to determine how John Duval Dodge, son of the late multimillionaire automobile manufacturer, suffered the 10-inch skull fracture now blamed for his mystifying death

"I am convinced that all the facts have not yet been told," Dowling declared

Dodge collapsed in a police station Wednesday morning as he was awaiting questioning concerning what Dowling said had been a drinking party that was broken up by a domestic quarrel in which his wife suffered a cut lip. He died in receiving hospital Thursday night.

The prosecutor said he was convinced from questioning Miss Mignon Fontaine 33-year-old interior decorator that Dodge had not suffered the injury in the home of a friend, Howard U Lange, where she roomed and in which the encounter with Mrs. Dodge took place.

Marion Co. Honey Production To Be Far Under Normal

The Marion County Beekeepers association will have no exhibit at the county fair because of adverse weather conditions which reduced the honey crop this year to about 10 per cent of the yield of most previous years. Beekeepers are concerned about the fate of bee colonies this winter as there are "practically no fall flowers" to depend on and it is a question if enough sugar can be obtained to keep the bees alive during the cold months. They added that flowers had suffered from lack of rain prior to the rains in the last 10 days

The situation for this area was agreed to be quite serious at a meeting of the association last night in the Y M C A. Speaker at the meeting was Merle W Young of the Marion-Delaware pike who gave a report on the Michigan-Ohio Beekeepers' meeting which he attended at Medina last week

POLICY COMMITTEE MEETING OF CIO SET

Called for Sunday In Washington To Discuss Contract.

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 15 — A meeting of the 30-man policy committee of the CIO United Steel Workers of America from plants of the Bethlehem Steel Co. has been called for Sunday in Washington to discuss terms of "the almost completed contract" with the concern, the union announced last night.

Van A. Bittner, assistant to Philip Murray, USWA president, and Lee Pressman, general counsel, will report on progress of their negotiations, carried on in New York.

Bethlehem is the only one of the four "Little Steel" group which has not yet signed a contract with the union after the war labor board recently ruled the steelworkers should pay a wage boost of 5½ cents an hour, retroactive to Feb. 6, grant maintenance of union memberships clauses and check-off union dues from payroll. The company already is paying the retroactive wages at its mills

Murray will not attend the meeting but will be in Washington early next week for a meeting with AFL officials to discuss peace and a possible merger of the CIO and AFL.

Murray also is expected to attend the open hearings by the war labor board beginning Tuesday in the deadlocked negotiations between the steel union and subsidiaries of the U. S. Steel Corp. over the union demands for retroactive pay, elimination of sectional differential raise and the issues decided in the "Little Steel" case.

QUARRY

dismantled, down about 12 to 15 feet from the surface of the quarry The men dived several times in vain efforts to connect a cable to it, but finally looped the cable and hooked around it without diving. The truck was used to draw it up the tracks to its present position.

The workers use an acetylene torch to cut the salvage into pieces that can be taken ashore, but had plenty of trouble with the dinkey. They knocked a heavy plate off the end nearest the camera in the picture above, and put it on their raft. The raft sank, but the men finally managed to get the piece to shore.

The acetylene torch will cut metal under water, so the workers didn't have any trouble cutting up rails in shallow water into sections they could handle.

In the north pool there's a big steam engine like the old timers you occasionally see in use in threshing machine outfits. Part of the top sticks out of the water. The workers hope to get a crane on the job in an effort to haul it out.

Big Ones Hard To Get

Some places make the worker's mouth water, but they can't do much about getting them out. Typical is a massive flywheel which they believe weighs around 45 tons. It would be an engineering feat to get it out of its mounting without draining the quarry. The top of the big wheel barely sticks out of the water.

MAN FINED FOR SELLING BEER TO 16-YEAR-OLD BOY

Given $50 Assessment In Municipal Court Proceedings.

Pleading guilty to a charge of selling beer to a minor, Frank Peters was fined $50 and costs this morning by Municipal Judge Dexter Hazen

Filing of the charge followed what sheriff's officials described as a "brawl" several weeks ago on Sunday at the Peters establishment on North Main street. One man was lodged in the county jail and a 16-year-old boy was sent to the detention home.

The boy's father signed the warrant and this morning sheriff's deputies brought Peters into municipal court. The boy is out on a suspended sentence to the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster. The man was released from jail when he paid a fine and costs.

No Redlegs Reach Second Base as St. Louis Ace Returns to Old Form.

By The Associated Press

ALL BECAUSE of Morton Cecil Cooper, the Cincinnati Reds go into the second of a four-game series with St. Louis today without any practice at sliding into third base or home plate.

The big righthander hadn't been going too well of late and last night decided no longer to flaunt superstition by wearing No. 13 on his back. He switched to No. 14 and blanked the Reds 4-0 on two singles.

Last night not a Redleg reached second base. Cooper fanned six and gave no walks, but Bert Haas, who singled in the first frame, got on again in the seventh on Martin Marion's high throw. Frank McCormick got the other Redleg safety in the fifth.

Double plays in the first and fourth helped Paul Derringer hold the Cards to one run for that distance, capped by Stan Musial's double. A final unearned run was made off Elmer Riddle in the eighth on an error, stolen base and single.

Reds Slip To Fourth

The defeat dropped the Reds a half game behind the New York Giants to fourth place.

Bucky Walters or Ray Starr for the Reds and Howard Krist for the Cards were today's probable pitchers.

Arc light baseball has no greater foe than the New York Yankees, but the absence of the sun doesn't seem to bother the world champions' defensive specialty, known to the trade as the double play.

Holders of the major league record for twin killings in a season, the Yankees established a new mark for a single game last night when they completed seven while walloping the Philadelphia Athletics, 11-2.

The old record for nine innings was six, set by the Cincinnati Reds in 1925, and tied by four other teams. The Washington Senators, only American leaguers sharing in the record, were the last to tie it in 1933.

Chance To Break Record

By killing two "birds" with one play in every inning except two, the Yankees stretched their total of two-ply executions to 150 for 111 games.

With 43 games in front of them, they need only 47 more double plays to crack the record of 196 for a 154-game season which they set last year.

At New York King Carl Hubbell tossed a four-hitter at the Philadelphia Phils as the New York Giants triumphed, 5-2.

"Bean balls" were forgotten at Brooklyn, where the Dodgers walloped the Boston Braves, 10-0 and 7-3.

The Chicago Cubs downed the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-1, backing up on Warneke's seven-hit pitching with an 18-blow attack.

In the only other game in the American league, the Detroit Tigers triumphed 7-1, over Chicago.

NEW FACE (AND FIGURE) JOINS CODY SWIM KIDS

Maryann Hansen . . . replaces Joyce Macrae on relay team. Wide World Features

Maryann Hansen To Compete in Contests with Famed Quartet.

PORTLAND, Ore. — Maryann Hansen has joined the Cody quartet, the group of mermaids which has splashed a whole bucketful of marks on the record books.

A trim 16-year-old, she replaces Joyce Macrae, who recently turned pro to take an instructor's job in Beverly Hills, Calif.

At the national women's swimming meet at Neenah, Wis., Aug. 14-16, Maryann will swim one of the laps in the 800-meter relay, one of the important championship events. Although she will be overshadowed by the more veteran members of the team—Nancy Merki, Brenda Helser and Suzanne Zimmerman—Coach Jack Cody says she'll do all right.

Will the Multnomah Athletic club—the more formal designation for the Cody Kids—win the relay? Jack won't go out on a limb.

"Most national events are won by a matter of inches," he says, "and even one second means a lot of distance at the finish line. Maryann hasn't covered the 200-meter distance quite as fast as Joyce used to, but competition sometimes makes a difference..."

Maryann has had competition as a junior. As a matter of fact there's one race that Cody tells about but which she is inclined to skip.

It was in a meet at Indianapolis a couple of years ago. Maryann was running well with the pack when suddenly, to Cody's consternation, she went out of sight. A moment later she was back on top, stroking furiously. Then she ducked again. Up she came again, but well back by that time. A third time she went down and up. "What were you doing with that submarine act?" Cody demanded when she finally pulled out of the pool.

"Well," she answered, "a strap on my suit broke and the suit started sliding off. Every time I went down, I was pulling it back on again."

Ohio Valley Net Tourney in Semi-Final Stage

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Aug. 15 — The Ratliff brothers, holders of Metropolitan singles and doubles tennis championships here for six years, and two Portsmouth, O., youngsters were semi-finalists today in the Ohio Valley Tennis tournament.

Chalmers Ratliff meets Charles Samson, sixth-seeded, who upset second-seeded Alvin Bunis of Cincinnati yesterday 6-1, 6-3. Private Jim Ratliff, elder of the brothers, takes on Bill Friel, third-seeded, who was extended yesterday to beat Bud Plumb of Cincinnati 9-7, 2-6 and 13-11.

Gene Ingram and Jane Wagner, both of Cincinnati, play for the right to meet defending champion Alice MacDonald of Chicago in the women's singles finals; while Dave Kuenzli of Springfield, O., is matched with Gordon Naugle, a local entry in the boy's singles final.

Samson meets Bunis again today in the junior singles finals. The Portsmouth netter defeated Orman Appel, 6-2, 7-5 in a semi-final.

COLUMBUS BACK IN TOP POSITION BY FRACTIONAL MARGIN

Red Birds Wallop Minneapolis by 11-0 Count While Kansas City Loses.

By The Associated Press

The American association flag chase, so hot that sparks fly from every game, entered the stage of splitting fractions today to determine the leaders.

Columbus regained the lead after walloping Minneapolis, 11 to 0, last night. The win gave the Birds a .536 percentage. Indianapolis, meanwhile, bounced Kansas City out the roost with a 3 to 1 verdict, while Milwaukee shaded Louisville, 3 to 2, and Toledo ran its winning streak to seven straight with a 12 to 3 conquest of St. Paul.

In the percentage column, the Blues fell to third place with 67 wins against 59 defeats for a mark of .5317. Milwaukee took over second with 66 wins against 58 losses and a percentage of .5323. Toledo was a strong fourth with .525.

Toledo was beaten, 3 to 2, in a night exhibition with the St. Louis Browns.

Columbus clipped the Millers for their fifth straight loss as Red Munger scattered six hits for his 13th victory. He fanned nine and permitted only one runner to reach third. The Red Birds cashed in with a six run assault in the third inning.

Dayton's Umpire Hater Loses Another Argument

Ducky Holmes' Refusal To Obey Brings $50 Fine and Forfeit of Game to Canton Team.

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., Aug. 15 — Umpire-baiting H. E. "Ducky" Holmes tried one of his oratorical squeeze plays last night but it cost him $50 and his Dayton Ducks a 9 to 0 forfeit in the first game of a Mid-Atlantic doubleheader.

Still not satisfied, Holmes resumed his argument in the second game and was banished from the field as his team lost 8-2.

Umpire Bob Crouch ordered the first game forfeited and fined Holmes when the Dayton manager refused to heed his "request" to leave the field in the fifth inning. "Ducky" had protested Crouch's ruling that a grounder down the first base line was a foul. Canton was leading 2 to 0 at the time.

Holmes came back for more in the eighth inning of the nightcap and was told to get off the field. He left.

Ready To Quit Once

The Mid-Atlantic league almost lost its most colorful figure when Holmes decided to give up managing this spring and retire to the front office. But after the club, with catcher Paul Chervinko in charge, stalled a notch above the cellar spot, Holmes took over again.

He won six of the next seven contests, then pushed the Ducks up to second place. Now he's trying to overhaul league-leading Charleston.

Stories about Holmes' tiffs with umpires are legion. He came up with an innovation when, ordered from the park several years ago, he directed his team from a utility pole which overlooked the field.

Five years ago the Ducks were in a hot race for the title when one of Holmes' ace players became ineligible. The league fine for using an ineligible man was $50 and Ducky needed the player worse than he needed $50, so he kept him in uniform — for 19 games. League officials ruled it would cost Dayton $50 a game—$950. Holmes howled, but paid.

Got $950 Back

When two teams decided not to play the following year, the resourceful Dayton manager conducted a successful one-man campaign to sign up two new clubs.

The league, as a gesture of appreciation, told him to submit a bill for expenses. The unitemized account came to $950 even.

In other Mid-Atlantic contests last night Zanesville and Springfield divided a double-header, Zanesville taking the first 2 to 1 and the Cardinals the second 3 to 2. Erie an Charleston split a twin bill, the Sailors winning the opener 2 to 1 and Charleston the nightcap 1 to 0.

STATE SCHOLASTIC SPORTS MEETS MAY BE DISCONTINUED

Transportation and Coaching Problems Put Damper on High Schools.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 15—State scholastic sports meets may be abandoned during the war, says H. R. Townsend, Ohio High school athletic commissioner.

The Ohio High School Athletic association's board of control yesterday cancelled the Oct. 31 state cross country event and Townsend said "It looks very much like we might have to abandon all high school sports contests."

He added that the high school principals' organization already had recommended cancellation of state debate, music, dramatic and scholarship contests, and other similar events.

The athletic board will decide later about canceling the annual state track meet and basketball tournaments, Townsend asserted.

An office of defense transportation forbids use of school buses to transport athletic teams. Schools unable to solve this problem may be forced to give up inter-scholastic sports, Townsend declared.

Other schools have no coaches, he explained, adding that there are 100-150 coaching vacancies in Ohio, principally in small schools.

He said the board decided to make no recommendations on this matter until Kenneth Ray, state education director, had completed a survey of coach and teacher vacancies.

Grimes Replaces Mack in Indian Line-Up

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Aug. 15—When the Indians oppose the St. Louis Browns, tonight under the lights, Oscar Grimes will be playing second base, instead of weak-hitting Ray Mack, for the third game in a row.

Grimes has substituted before but this time he is expected to get a real chance to show what he has. And if he can produce some batting punch he may make the keystone sack his regular stamping ground.

Manager Lou Boudreau, trying to prop his sliding Indians, needs a hitter as a desert needs rain. The Tribesmen have scored only 11 runs in their last eight contests, and have won only one.

Jeff Heath's batting average has dropped 50 points to .271 the past four weeks and in that time Les Fleming's has skidded 35 points to .301. The one bright spot is Ken Keltner's hitting, boosting his percentage from .270 to .293 in the past week.

Compared to the power-slugging Mack has not lost so much but his current .222 is a new low and far from his average of .2[illegible] in 1940, his first full year with Cleveland.

'Mister V" Coming

'Mister V," Leslie Howard's new production in which he plays the top stellar role, will show at the Palace Wednesday, A professor of archaeology at Cambridge, Howard stages daring escapes of anti-Nazis from inside Germany. Operating from England under a formula whereby he is never seen by the Nazis or by the people he rescues, he finally goes to Berlin and comes face to face with the head of the Gestapo.

How he outwits the Nazis provides the high point of the story. Most of the action takes place in England, on the Swiss border and in Berlin showing the workings of the German ministry of information, the inner sanctum of the Gestapo chief and the well-knit organization of underground Germany Mary Morris is the girl who is trapped into spying for the Gestapo.

Story of Music

The story of today's music, "Syncopation," the film offering for Thursday and Friday, deals with the development of modern dance rhythms from their jungle origins "Rag-time" to "jazz" to "swing" to "boogie-woogie" is the progression, personalized through the life story of a girl, Bonita Granville, who has music in her soul and wants to let the world know it.

It begins in New Orleans when she is seven, reaches its peak in Chicago during the World war years, prohibition era and the market crash and ends in New York City near the present day. Jackie Cooper plays Miss Granville's husband and Adolphe Menjou her father

One of "Topper" Pictures Billed at State Theater

Comedy, mystery and romance are blended in the swiftly paced story which unfolds in "Topper Returns," which will play at the State theater Sunday and Monday. The cast is headed by Joan Blondell, Roland Young, Carole Landis, Billie Burke, Patsy Kelly, Dennis O'Keefe, Rochester and Rafaela Ottiano Roland Young and Billie Burke are back as Cosmo Topper and his flattery spouse. Topper again manifests his sometimes embarrassing fascination for ghosts, and the lovely, snapely spirit which haunts him this time is Joan Blondell as the unearthly Gail Richards.

Buck Jones and Tim McCoy in "Ghost Town Law' complete the bill.

Tuesday and Wednesday Ginger Rogers and George Murphy will star in 'Tom, Dick and Harry,' and "Two Bright Boys," with Jackie Cooper and Richard Bartholomew will be shown Playing Thursday through Saturday will be "Mob Town,' in which the Dead End Kids and Dick Foran are featured, and William Tracy and James Gleason in "Hay Foot."

Ohio Shows Comedy Film

Laurel-Hardy Picture Cast Includes Magician; Jap Film Coming.

Magic, murder, mirth, action and romance are all packed into "A-Haunting We Will Go," which will play at the Ohio theater through Monday. Laurel and Hardy are featured in the film with Dante, the magician, Sheila Ryan, Jean Shelton, Don Costello and Elisha Cook Jr.

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday the Ohio will present "Little Tokyo, U. S. A.," starring Brenda Joyce and Preston Foster. Although the original screen play is fictional, all incidents in the picture having to do with espionage are based on cold, hard facts gleaned from the records of the Dies committee Little Tokyo, the Japanese sector of Los Angeles, is the locale of the picture Preston Foster, as a detective, and Brenda Joyce, as a radio commentator, set out to unmask the Axis-spawned traitors of this sinister city within a city and in doing so they provice plenty of mystery, romance and thrills.

The story is laid just prior to Dec 7. Purporting to show the machinations of the Japs prior to the war, it realistically shows how the oriental pirates were able to keep tabs on all the vital industries The film reveals in detail, how after months of clever maneuvers, the axis had planned to immobilize the production and shipping of the United States.

"This Above All," a modern love story, will start a week's run Friday. Its stars are Tyrone Power and Joan Fontaine as Clive Briggs and Prudence Cathaway. The story has to do with the love of Clive Briggs, a deserter from the British Army after the siege of Dunkirk, and Prudence Cathaway, the WAAF member, who take a brief holiday jaunt after they meet and discover their love for each other. Prudence wants Clive to give himself up to the authorities, and return to his regiment. But Clive is bitter about the war The results of this situation make "This Above All" an intense drama.

Featured in the cast of the film are Thomas Mitchell, Henry Stephenson, Nigel Bruce, Gladys Cooper, Philip Merivale, Sara Allgood and Alexander Knox.

Also showing is "The Courtship of Andy Hardy," in which Andy finds a new romance and successfully gets out of it to become a free man again. Featured with Mickey Rooney are Lewis Stone, Cecelia Parker, Fay Holden, Donna Reed and Ann Rutherford.

In "Quiet Wedding," showing Tuesday and Wednesday, Margaret Lockwood is seen as a bride-to-be who wants a pompless wedding while the members of her family insist upon a lavish affair. Heading the supporting cast is Derek Farr, a screen newcomer. "Blue, White and Perfect," starring Lloyd Nolan as Michael Shayne with Mary Beth Hughes will complete the bill.

Thursday through Saturday "Romance on the Range," featuring Roy Rogers will be shown. The film deals with the fight the citizens of a western town are waging against a cut-throat gang of bandits Leo Carrillo, Andy Devine, Don Terry and Louise Allbritton are headlined in the film, "Danger in the Pacific." Carrillo portrays an intelligence officer who, with the aid of Devine and Terry, brings about the destruction of a secret terrorist organization hidden in the island's wild interior.

Buenos Aires expects to save 200,000 tons of fuel annually by closing all theaters and motion picture houses an hour earlier, suppressing certain street lighting and extinguishing lights in all store windows

STOCK LEADERS EXTEND RALLY

Buying Power Fades to Considerable Extent; News Inspiration Is Lacking.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 15 — Outstanding news inspiration was lacking for today's brief stock market and, while many leaders managed to extend the recent rally by minor fractions, buying power faded to a considerable extent.

Speculative and investment sentiment continued cheerful over reports of American progress in the battle of the Solomons.

Closing prices were narrow and a wide assortment of issues unchanged. Transfers for the two hours were around 115,000 shares.

General Motors kept its balance in the wake of a three-man panel recommendation to the W.L.B. for a wage increase of 5 cents an hour to more than 225,000 employes. This would involve an addition of about $25,000,000 to the company's payroll. Chrysler was up most of the session.

New Year's highs were recorded for Erie certificates, Ohio Oil, Texas & Pacific Railway and Borden.

In front at one time or another were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Sears Roebuck, Westinghouse, General Electric, Kennecott, Du Pont, Homestake Mining, Warner Bros. and Standard Oil (N.J.).

Eastman Kodak suffered an early relapse. Inclined to falter were U. S. Rubber preferred, Chesapeake & Ohio, Liggett & Myers "B" and Phelps Dodge.

Bonds were irregularly higher and commodities mixed.

In the curb Creole Petroleum slipped when estimated first half earnings showed a substantial recession from a year ago. Attracting mild support were Gulf Oil, Glen Alden coal and International Petroleum.

Those searching for trend clues noted the survey of the National Lumber Manufacturers Association disclosed today that, while lumber production in the week ended Aug. 8 was up a shade over the preceding week, it was 9 per cent less than in the comparable 1941 period.

Some satisfaction was derived from the announcement that rail shipments of oil to the eastern seaboard last week reached a new record total of 800,430 barrels daily. The previous peak figure was 800,100 barrels established in the week of July 25.

NUMBER OF GAMBLING DEVICES DISCLOSED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—Although pin-ball games and slot machines are illegal in a large part of the United States, the treasury disclosed today that more than 238,000 are in operation and paying federal taxes.

The count was made in totalling returns from new taxes imposed by Congress last fall on pin-ball and other "coin-operated amusement devices" at the rate of $10 a year and on slot machines and other "coin-operated gaming devices" at the rate of $50 a year. As of June 30, the tax had been paid on 160,894 machines in the pin-ball class and 77,129 in the slot machine group.

Treasury officials have received numerous requests from religious and reform organizations for lists of persons paying the taxes in allegedly forbidden territories.

The treasury has replied in each case that the lists are open to the public in the offices of the various collectors of internal revenue "at the convenience of the collectors."

New York led in the pin-ball class with 22,143, Wisconsin in the slot machine group with 7,247.

Ohio had 6,261 "amusement devices" on which tax was paid for the fiscal year ended June 30, and 6,010 slot machines and other "gambling devices."

The Ohio department of taxation has maintained that collection of the tax did not sanction use of the device.

Bulletin Reports Week in Wool Trade Quiet

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Aug. 15—The Commercial Bulletin said today:

"It has been a placid week in the wool trade. Only one or two houses have had a substantial business. Demand has favored very largely fine and half-blood territory wools, for which prices have approximated the ceilings very closely.

"Advices from Washington lead one to suppose that fair orders for military use may be expected shortly. Some small business by negotiation evidently is going on more or less steadily.

"Western operations have been restricted this week both by the selection of wools now available and the prices asked by growers which frequently are above the ceiling parity and offer a dealer no chance to make even a meager commission for handling.

"Foreign primary markets are generally quiet. Apparently it is not easy to import Australian wools at the new higher prices under our ceilings. South American prices are reasonably low, although not meeting with interest here.

"Mohair is quiet and a bit on the easy side, with some purchases at 45 and 48 cents in Texas for adult hair and a dime more for kid.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

THERE WAS such poignant anguish in Ronald's voice that I knew he was beyond any comfort I could give.

So I fixed my attention on the letter, then put it down with a feeling of utter bewilderment.

"Wha do you think it means?" I asked.

"I haven't the faintest idea," he replied. "If only I could trust her! That's an awful thing to say about my only sister," he went on, with bitterness in his voice, "but she's fooled me so consistently about this thing, that I simply can't believe her.

"And yet," he said hopefully, doesn't there seem a ring of truth, somehow, in her letter?"

Carolyn's Letter

I did not believe there was enough truth in Carolyn Brixton to cover the head of a pin, but I knew I was prejudiced, and with saner judgment might find something to believe in her appeal. With that thought I read the letter again very carefully.

"Ron, Darling!" it began, "do you remember when we were little, and I used to follow you around everywhere? You were always the square one and I was the squirmy one, always getting into mischief and then lying my way out of it. What an awful little liar I was! But you cured me of lying, Darling Brother, and were always patient with my scrapes and helped me out of them.

"And now I'm in the worst scrape of all my life, and I'm marooned up here in college with not a soul I can talk to about it, now that Marion's gone and my brother two hundred miles away!"

Intuitively, at the words "now Marion's gone," my suspicion was revived that Carolyn's secret, whatever it might be, was responsible, in part at least, for her roomie's disappearance.

Admits Having Lied

"I know you have reason not to believe me," the letter went on, "but honestly, Ron, I'm sorry for the whole mess—which isn't as bad as you think—and I'd like to help straighten it out if I could.

"I've always said I didn't know anything about this, but I was lying. I do, a little—not much. But maybe it would give me a starting point if I were only where I could do something.

"I can't do anything up here, and I feel like a rat in a trap, for I know I'm being watched constantly. I can sense that, though I can't lay a hand on a thing. But I don't take a breath without it's being counted and weighed, and I think sometimes I'm going crazy."

So Carolyn's shrewd, agile brain had discovered the espionage upon her, despite my father's precautions! I wondered if her plea in the next paragraph was the child of that brain or of her heart.

Her Final Plea

"Oh, Ron, Darling Brother Mine," the letter went on, "if you could wangle it with Dad and Mums so I could come down to New York for a few days, I believe I could find out some things. I'd do my best, and then I'd be with you.

"Please, Darling, do try to manage it for your bad but loving little sister,

"Carol."

I now laid the letter down feeling it might be wise to grant this apparently hysterical request.

"There's one thing to be said in favor of Carolyn's plan," I said, and his eyes put a question, but he did not interrupt me.

"We might be able," I added, "to get a better line on the men who, we think, are trying to get in touch with her."

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

Radioactive Particles

"The application of the isotrope tracer technic to medical investigation ranks in importance with the invention of the microscope and the discovery of the X-ray."

These are the opening words in an article in a very conservative medical journal, and the statement certainly is startling because the microscope and the X-ray have been instruments of continuous usefulness.

Some of my readers may remember that I described this work last summer after I had visited with Professor Lawrence at the University of California and had seen the giant cyclotron. With this it is possible to make chemicals radioactive and then to administer them to an animal and detect where they light and begin to operate in the body.

For instance, I saw a laboratory worker swallow some radioactive iodine. Within ten minutes he took a detector and put it over his thyroid gland and it rattled off like a barrage of machine guns. When he placed it over the muscles of his leg, it was silent. We know, of course, that the thyroid gland uses iodine in its chemical machinery, that, in fact, it is made up largely of iodine, but nothing I ever saw demonstrated how exclusively iodine is used and localized in the thyroid tissue as did that experiment.

It can readily be seen from this example how much we can learn from this instrument about the action of the various minerals and chemicals that go into the body—where they exert their action and how they are concentrated.

There is another element to the experiments in that when it is known where a certain chemical naturally goes, radioactive particles of it can be put in the body and they will exert radioactivity at the very site where it is needed most.

Thus phosphorus, while it is a part of all living cells, goes after being swallowed almost directly to the bones. There it lights in the bone marrow where the blood cells are formed. Now certain blood diseases, the luekemias, in which an excessive amount of blood cells are formed, can be controlled by using radioactive agents such as the X-ray over the region of the marrow of the long bones. How much more effective it would seem to be to send some radioactive atoms of phosphorus directly into the marrow and let them do this work. Already experiments along this line have been tried.

Again, take iron — a familiar substance forming a large part of all blood cells. One would think we had found out all about iron. But there are some mysteries surrounding it. It helps some anemias and not others. By the use of radioactive iron atoms it has been found that if your bodily stores of iron are not depleted you can eat all the iron you want and the body will not absorb one bit of it. It all stays in and passes through the intestine.

The same thing is true of vitamin B. If you have plenty in the diet, the body does not absorb any extra amount of it no matter whether you take it by mouth, by hypodermic, by "vein" or how. About 10 per cent of the body's vitamin B is destroyed anyway every 24 hours.

The Stars Say—

For Sunday, Aug. 16

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds much encouragement for safe and secure conditions to further sound aims and objectives seriously developed and planned on accepted systems, with attention to details and sound principles. Initiative and enterprise should attract public and community support, although financial results may be minimized by extravagant outlay or lavish use of funds.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of opportunity for sound progress on well-planned, systematic development with persistent application and industry. But extravagance, careless or unwarranted use of finances may negative any desired results, although there may be promise of public and community support.

A child born on this day although enterprising and energetic, with sound ideas and principles, yet may be extravagant, and subject to reversals and imposition.

For Monday, Aug. 17

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a day of successful and pleasant dealings with superiors, employers and those in important places or authority. Those in large corporations, secret or fraternal bodies may be disposed to entertain propositions of an intriguing, strategical or secret nature.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy happy and profitable dealings with superiors, employers and those in high authority. They should also make successful contracts with large corporations, political bodies or fraternal groups if managed with tact, strategy, shrewdness or tacit agreements. But these should be handled with a view to the clearly apparent possibilities of intrigue or subtle twists of meaning.

A child born on this day should have much stability of character, and should find favor with its employers, superiors or elders.

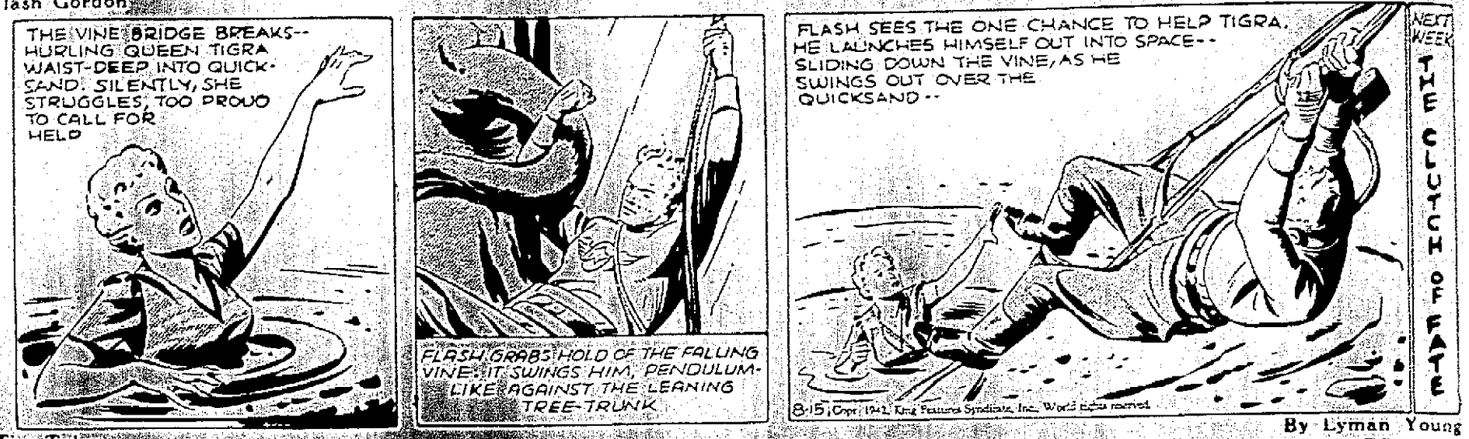
Solution Of Yesterday's Puzzle

Blondie — By Chic Young

SHAME ON YOU, DAGWOOD BUMSTEAD, SPILLING YOUR TOBACCO ON THE FLOOR AND LEAVING IT!
I'LL CLEAN IT UP, BUT I TELL YOU, I DON'T DO THIS
I SUPPOSE IT SPILLED ITSELF
GEE WHIZ, I GET THE BLAME FOR EVERYTHING AROUND HERE!
NOW, WHAT DID YOU BREAK?

Flash Gordon



THE VINE BRIDGE BREAKS—HURLING QUEEN TIGRA WAIST-DEEP INTO QUICKSAND. SILENTLY, SHE STRUGGLES, TOO PROUD TO CALL FOR HELP
FLASH GRABS HOLD OF THE FALLING VINE—IT SWINGS HIM, PENDULUM-LIKE AGAINST THE LEANING TREE-TRUNK
FLASH SEES THE ONE CHANCE TO HELP TIGRA. HE LAUNCHES HIMSELF OUT INTO SPACE—SLIDING DOWN THE VINE, AS HE SWINGS OUT OVER THE QUICKSAND—
NEXT WEEK
THE CLUTCH OF FATE

Tim Tyler — By Lyman Young

OBOY—WHAT A NIGHTMARE!
A HELICOPTER LANDING ON A PUBLIC GARAGE ROOF DURING A BLACKOUT—ALMOST SHOT BY AGENTS OF THE OCTOPUS—LIEUT. FLEET'S ESCAPE WITH THAT PARCEL! I CAN HARDLY WAIT TILL I HEAR HOW HE MADE OUT WITH THOSE BIRDS
TIM! SOMETHING'S HAPPENED! THE LIEUTENANT'S BED HASN'T BEEN SLEPT IN—!!
HE NEVER RETURNED LAST NIGHT!
S-SAY THAT AGAIN, SPUD!

Thimble Theater

OLIVE IS RESTING EASY—SHE FAINTED BECAUSE SHE PEEKED AT YOUR SECRET ORDERS
THANK YA, AUNT JONES
WELL, WE'A A THOUSING MILES AT SEA—I WILL SEE WHAT THE ORDERS SEZ
RIP
HM? POPEYE READ THE ORDERS AND FAINTED?
WONDER WHY?
PLOP
BLESS MY SOUL! WIMPY LOOKED AT POPEYE'S ORDERS AND FAINTED
PLOP
WHAT THE HECK IS THE USE OF ME READIN' 'EM?
PLOP

Tillie the Toiler — By Russ Westover

SO I'VE PASSED MY PHYSICAL EXAMINATION—DOES THAT MEAN I'M ACCEPTED?
NOT DEFINITELY—YOU'LL BE NOTIFIED BY MAIL
HERE'S THE POST-MAN, TILLIE
MAYBE IT'S MY LETTER FROM THE W.A.A.C.
GEE
NEXT DAY
ANYTHING FOR ME, MR. SMITH?
SURE MISS TILLIE—THREE LETTERS
GOOD NEWS, TILLIE!
NO, ONLY $25 FOR WINNING A LIMERICK CONTEST—A REFUND ON MY INCOME TAX AND AN OFFER FROM HOLLYWOOD!

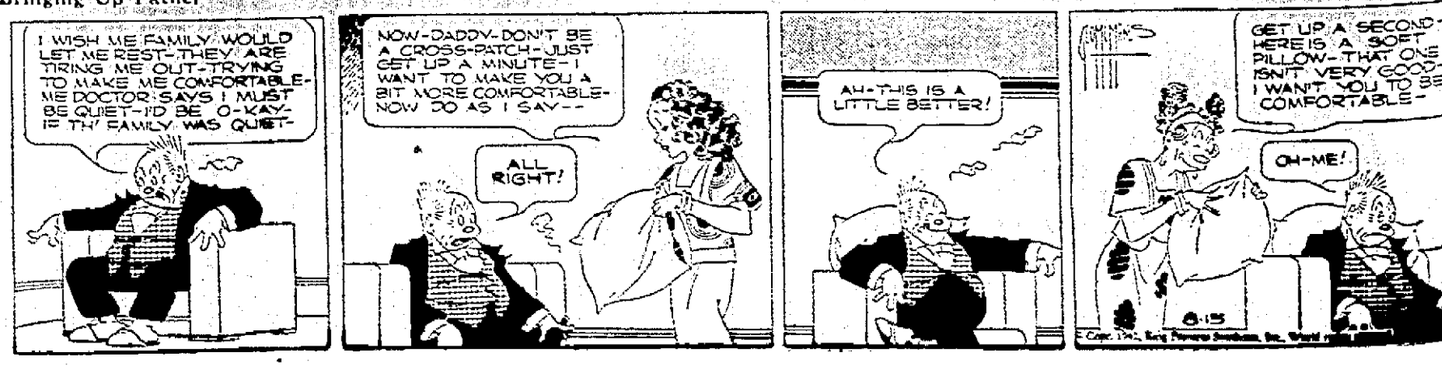
Toots and Casper — By Jimmy Murphy

ANOTHER LETTER FROM BUTTERCUP, CASPER?
NO, A BILL FROM THE CAMP—TWO WEEKS AT $50 A WEEK! THOSE KIDS SURE HAVE EXPENSIVE TASTE!
CASPER, DID YOU HEAR FROM BUTTERCUP?
I SURE DID—AND ALSO FROM THAT CLASSY CAMP WHERE THE KIDS ARE STAYING!
SO DID I!! I GOT AN AWFUL SHOCK WHEN I SAW THEIR BILL!
I FELT THAT WAY, TOO, BUT AS LONG AS THE KIDS ARE SAFE, I'D BE GLAD TO PAY TWICE AS MUCH!
I'M GLAD TO HEAR YOU SAY THAT, CASPER, BECAUSE I WAS JUST GOING TO BORROW $100 FROM YOU TO PAY TEDDY'S BILL—I'M BROKE!
I SHOULD HAVE KNOWN THAT, CHOOFER! BUT WHY DO YOU ALWAYS HAVE TO TAKE EVERYTHING I SAY SO LITERALLY?

Annie Rooney — By Brandon Walsh

COME ON, ZERO—QUICK! THERE'S THAT TOWN CONSTABLE AGAIN!
IT'S OKAY—HE'S GONE AWAY—IT'S KINDA TOUGH TO BE LOOKIN' FOR A JOB AN' DODGING THE CONSTABLE AT THE SAME TIME
THE COOK IN THE LUNCHROOM SEZ THE CONSTABLE DOESN'T LIKE BEGGARS AN' VAGRANTS—
-AN' ANYBODY THAT DON'T HAVE ANY JOB OR MONEY IS A VAGRANT—SO, I JUST GOTTA FIND A JOB BEFORE THAT CONSTABLE FINDS ME!
DARRELL McCLURE

Bringing Up Father — By George McManus



I WISH ME FAMILY WOULD LET ME REST—THEY ARE TIRING ME OUT—TRYING TO MAKE ME COMFORTABLE—ME DOCTOR SAYS I MUST BE QUIET—I'D BE O-KAY—IF TH' FAMILY WAS QUIET—
NOW—DADDY—DON'T BE A CROSS-PATCH—JUST GET UP A MINUTE—I WANT TO MAKE YOU A BIT MORE COMFORTABLE—NOW DO AS I SAY—
ALL RIGHT!
AH—THIS IS A LITTLE BETTER!
GET UP A SECOND HERE IS A SOFT PILLOW—THAT ONE ISN'T VERY GOOD—I WANT YOU TO BE COMFORTABLE—
OH-ME!
